COUNTY RETURNS TO G. O. P. COLUMN IN VOTING ON TUESDAY

State And National Candidates Carry County—Jones Wins For Assembly In New Castle, Weingartner In County District

Lawrence County returned to the Republican column in the general election on Tuesday, but by the slight margin of 563 votes, in the Presidential contest. Wendell L. Willkie polled 19,400 votes in the 100 precincts of the county, and President Franklin D. Roosevelt polled 18,837. Slight as the margin of victory, it represented a substantial gain over the totals of 1936 when President Roosevelt carried this county by 6,536 votes.

Along with Mr. Willkie, the other Republican candidates carried the county at large, but the city of New Castle was carried by the Democrats, and the Republican candidate for General Assembly in the first district, Oliver J. Shannon, lost to Presley N. Jones by a vote of 10,030 to 9383.

County Tabulation

The tabulation of the county vote follows:

For President:
Wendell L. Willkie (R), 19,400.

Oliver J. Shannon (R), 9,383.
Second District:
George T. Weingartner (R), 9,352.
Clyde M. Buzard (D), 9,363.

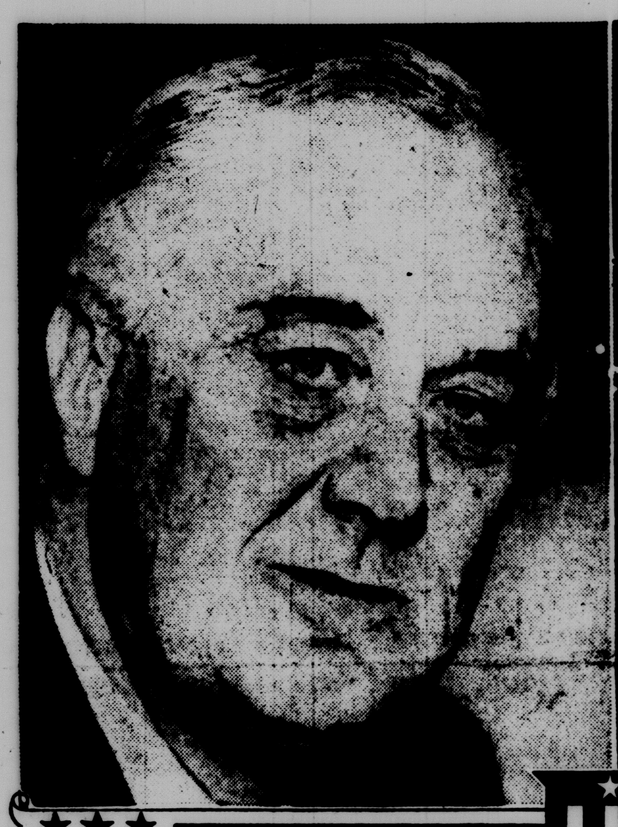

New Castle Democratic

New Castle went Democratic, but by a small margin in the national tickets. President Roosevelt carried the city by a vote of 10,490 to Willkie's 9,347, but Senator Guffey barely got through with a vote of 9,673 to 9,529. Congressman Louis E. Graham polled the highest Republican vote in New Castle, getting 9,652 votes to Peter P. Reising's 9,683, a difference of but 31 votes.

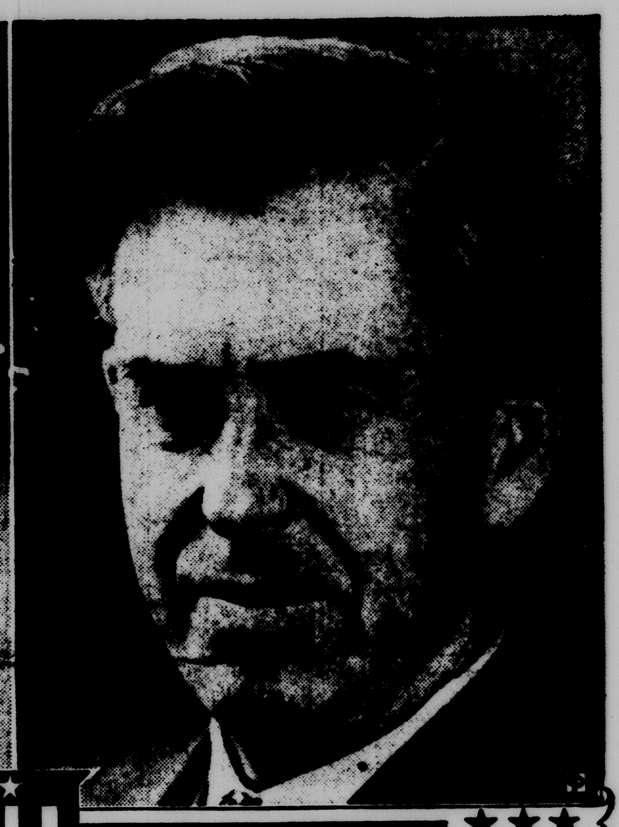

The rural districts were responsible for the county going Republican. Such precincts as New Wilmington, Scott township, Neshannock township and the other rural areas, turned in tremendous majorities for the Republican ticket, while the Democrats piled up their big leads in the fifth and eighth wards of New Castle, and in some Ellwood City precincts.

The battle in Lawrence county was a vigorous one, with both parties contesting every step of the way.

PRESIDENT WILL RECEIVE LARGE ELECTORAL VOTE

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(Wednesday)—President Franklin D. Roosevelt early today had won the greatest "vote of confidence" ever given an American chief executive when he was re-elected to a third term by a smashing plurality in the electoral college.

The President led Wendell Willkie in 38 of the 48 states, with an electoral vote of 448 to 83 for the Republican nominee. His tremendous triumph apparently has kept the House safely Democratic along with the Senate.

At 1:30 a. m. (E.S.T.), it appeared the Democrats had won smashing victories all along the line, although in a few states Republican nominees for governor and United States senators slipped through despite Roosevelt's election. In two states—Michigan and New Jersey—the voters appeared to have rebuked local Democratic political machines by giving victory not only to Willkie, but to the entire Republican ticket.

Willkie made his best showing in the farm belt and rural areas of the East. This so encouraged him that he refused to concede defeat in the early morning hours, and his lieutenants took the cue from him.

G. O. P. Chairman Joseph W. Martin, Jr., and other Republican chieftains waited on Willkie throughout the night to take the lead in congratulating Roosevelt. Instead, Willkie told his followers to "never quit".

Martin was asked whether he would concede Roosevelt's re-election. He replied:

Statement Tomorrow

"I am not making any concessions at this time. I won't make any statement until tomorrow morning, until after I get all the returns and have a chance to analyze them."

Asked what he thought of the election returns, he replied:

"We are still wishing the final returns will be better."

Roosevelt won his victory right down the line—in big and little states—in the East, South and West. Only in the farm belt did he show political weakness.

In the states with big electoral votes Roosevelt proved invincible. In New York 93 per cent of the total vote showed:

Roosevelt, 3,082,073.
Willkie, 2,817,025.

In Pennsylvania the vote of two-thids of the state showed:

Roosevelt, 1,458,602.
Willkie, 1,245,807.

In Ohio returns from 85 per cent showed:

Roosevelt, 1,465,187.
Willkie, 1,369,754.

In Illinois near final returns were:

Roosevelt, 1,110,676.
Willkie, 1,057,803.

Mr. Roosevelt smashed all American traditions in winning a third term.

The President received the outcome by joyfuly greeting admirers from the porch of his Hyde Park home. He joked and chatted with his followers.

Refuses to Give Up

Willkie, meanwhile, went before his followers in the ballroom of a New York City hotel in just as cheerful a manner. He flatly refused to "give up". To wildly cheering admirers, who chanted "We want Willkie", the G. O. P nominee said:

"Fellow workers:

"I first want to say to you that I never felt better in my life.

"I congratulate you in being a part of the greatest crusade of this century. The principles for which we have fought will prevail as sure as that truth will always prevail.

"I hope that none of you are either afraid or disheartened, because I am not in the slightest. I just wanted to come down and thank you so much for being my fellow fighters in this struggle, before going back to my rooms inside."

"I heard some people shouting to me, 'Don't give up'. Evidently they don't know me.

"Don't be afraid. And never quit."

Amazing Race

The President ran an amazing race. He swept New England, except the Landon states of Maine and Vermont, and in those he ran better than in 1936. His pluralities raced down the eastern seaboard, through the solid South and border states, through the Mountain states to the west coast.

Willkie made his stand in rural areas and in the farm belt. In the East he ran far better than Alf M. Landon did in 1936, but he could not overcome Mr. Roosevelt's tremendous popularity.

The Republican nominee at 12:30 was ahead in only Maine, Vermont, New Jersey, Michigan, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, North Dakota, South Dakota and Oregon. Democratic leaders in some of these states insisted Roosevelt would carry them too when the final returns are tabulated.

In Happy Mood

The President took his precedent-shattering victory in happy mood. To his home-towners he pledged himself as the first third team President in all American history to remain "the same Franklin Roosevelt you have known for a great many years."

James A. Farley, New York Democratic chairman who managed Mr. Roosevelt's 1932 and 1936 campaigns, made a speech in which he repeated the pledge which he—as the then-national chairman—made, promising there would be "no reprisals".

"I ask the victors to be considerate and moderate in the joy of their victory," he said.

Calling upon the "losers" for the fullest co-operation with the administration, Farley declared "The United States needs national unity now as never before in history."

"Voice of America"

The "voice of America has spoken," he asserted, and called upon the electorate—Republicans, dissident Democrats, and minority party members alike, to abide by it in the face of a world at war.

The President by midnight had rolled up heavy leads in 35 states, having an electoral vote of 425. The President needed but 266 to win.

Mr. Roosevelt won a tremendous "vote of confidence" from the American people in his conduct of international affairs. He began rolling up huge pluralities over Willkie in New England states, then swept down the eastern seaboard and throught the solid South and border states to the Far West to win successive triumphs.

His only weakness was in the rural and farm belt areas, where Willkie scored his successes.

Willkie's main strength lay in the farm belt. In all, at midnight, he was leading in only 11 states, having 95 electoral votes. One of these was New Jersey, his only big success in the East, and in that state,

Young Casts Ballot Despite Broken Legs

C. L. Young Taken From Jameson Memorial Hospital To Rose Point To Vote

Despite the fact that both his legs are encased in big casts, protecting fractures which he received when struck by an automobile while crossing the highway near his home in Slippery Rock township on August 15, C. L. Young, of R. F. D. No. 2, Portersville, was not deprived of his vote yesterday.

Through arrangements with his doctor, he was carried to an automobile and transported to the Rose Point polling place in Slippery Rock township, where he cast his ballot for Wendell Willkie. Then he came back to his bed in the Jameson Memorial hospital, satisfied that he had performed his duty as a citizen of this great Republic. He was none the worse today for his experience, only a little disappointed that the man of his choice did not win out.

New Castle Votes For Sunday Movies

New Castle citizens have voted for motion pictures on Sunday. In the election of Tuesday, November 5th, the question was decided in the affirmative by a vote of 11,463 to 7972, tremendous majorities being poled up for the affirmative side of the question in the fifth, sixth seventh and eighth wards.

This was the second time the question had been before the citizens. Five years ago the question was upon the ballot and was defeated by a narrow margin. It can be voted upon only once every five years and this year the question was again placed upon the ballot.

It is not known when the theaters will be permitted to operate on Sunday but it is assumed that it will be immediately after the vote has been attested to the Secretary of the Commonwealth in Harrisburg. This will take about two weeks.

Jones And Weingartner Are Winners

Presley N. Jones of New Castle, a Democrat, and George T. Weingartner of Shenango township, a Republican, will represent Lawrence county in the General Assembly of Pennsylvania in the session of 1941. Mr. Jones will represent the first district, which is New Castle, while Mr. Weingartner will represent the second district which is Lawrence county outside of New Castle.

Record Intact

The victory of George T. Weingartner keeps intact a record of political victories started 36 years ago. In 1904 he was elected to the General Assembly from the county at large and re-elected in 1906. In 1908 he was elected to the State Senate from Lawrence and Beaver counties and served a four year term.

His next appearance as a candidate was in 1919 when he was elected as a county commissioner and was re-elected in 1923. In 1924 he was elected to the State Senate

Ohio Electoral Votes Are Given To Roosevelt

(International News Service)

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 6.—President Roosevelt appeared certain of Ohio's 26 electoral votes as unofficial returns this morning showed him leading his Republican opponent, Wendell Willkie, by 92,318 votes with only 1,030 of the state's 8,675 precincts unreported.

The vote: Roosevelt (D) 1,447,995; Willkie (R) 1,355,677.

The President carried only 30 of Ohio's 88 counties, 37 fewer than he carried four years ago, but in his column were those counties with the heaviest vote, including the great industrial centers of Cleveland, Akron and Youngstown.

Latest returns in the gubernatorial contest gave Gov. John W. Bricker, Republican incumbent, a lead of 51,000 over his Democratic rival, former Gov. Martin L. Davey.

In the contest for U. S. senator, Mayor Harold Burton of Cleveland, a Republican, led former Congressman John McSweeney, Democrat, by 27,000 votes.

Fewer than 2,000 precincts were represented in returns for governor and senator, the count being held up while the Presidential vote was tallied.

McQuiddy Is Elected To State Senate

J. K. McQuiddy of New Castle, a Democrat, will represent the 47th senatorial district in the Pennsylvania State Senate in the sessions of 1941 and 1943. W. Sharp Fullerton, 19,442.

Beaver county, 109 of 110 precincts:

Mr. Fullerton has been the assemblyman from the second district of Lawrence county for the past two years. His home is in North Beaver township, and the rural districts of this county gave him a magnificent vote. In the industrial districts of New Castle he trailed badly.

Mr. McQuiddy is a resident of New Castle and is an electrician by trade. This was his first venture into politics as a candidate.

Bombing Attacks On Britain Resumed

Raiders Fly At Five-Mile Height

New Daylight Aerial Attack Is Made By Twenty-Two Nazi Raiders

BRITISH FLIERS BOMB NAZI STRONGHOLDS

(International News Service)

LONDON, Nov. 5.—Flying five miles high, 22 raiders crossed the Kent coast today in a new daylight aerial attack upon Britain.

A few minutes later an air raid alarm, the city's 304th, sounded in London.

British fighters engaged the raiders and pursued them toward the sea. Machine-gunning was heard in a southeastern English town, where one raider dropped 12 high explosive bombs but caused only slight damage and no casualties.

The 304th alarm ended in London without any incidents in the metropolitan area, but a few minutes later a second daylight warning was sounded.

The renewed Nazi sky assault followed a night during which anti-aircraft batteries defending London hurled up a terrific barrage against attacking bombers.

Attack Singly

The night alarm ended around 7 a. m. (1 a. m. EST) after single German raiders, attacking one by one, gave London's gun crews a busy night.

Simultaneously British bombers attacked Nazi "invasion ports" and other targets in occupied France, but these assaults were relatively light owing to adverse weather conditions.

One raider, in a diving attack, machine-gunned workers as they left a factory, causing a few casualties.

The air ministry communique described the night attacks said the raids were widespread and carried out on a fairly heavy scale with bombs dropped on many places in England and Scotland, but causing relatively slight damage and only a few casualties.

While London was the main objective, the ministry said, bombs also fell on two towns in the Midlands, on the Merseyside area, on a number of points in southeastern England and on the eastern counties of England.

Many parts of London were hit, the number of killed and injured reported small.

Willkie Retires Apparently Not Conceding Defeat

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—At half past one this morning, Wendell Willkie, yawned, stretched, and announced that he was going to bed.

From his hotel suite came the word that there would be no further word from him until some time later in the day and that the time was indefinite.

Willkie retired, apparently decisively defeated for the presidency but without having conceded his defeat.

He left no call and there was no indication when he might rise to go over the election figures again and decide what action to take.

President Makes Midnight Talk To His Neighbors

By GEORGE DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 6—President Franklin Delano Roosevelt accepted the nation's indicated verdict that he serve for a third term in a talk to his Hyde Park neighbors at midnight Tuesday.

"We of course face difficult days in this country," he told the Hyde Park torchlight paraders assembled in the family driveway, "but I think you will find me in the future the same Franklin Roosevelt you have known for a great many years."

The president, apparently having created another precedent on the third term issue, told the crowd that "everything looks okay" but added that the returns from California had not yet come in.

It was about 11 P.M. that the Roosevelt home club decided the election trend was sufficiently strong in the president's direction to start their regular election parade to Hyde Park house.

They arrived with an American Legion drum and bugle corps, red flares and signs reading "safe on third" and "keep the fireside chats burning."

At 11:50 P.M., President Roosevelt on the arm of his son, Franklin Jr., appeared on the porch of his home, followed by his mother, his wife, his youngest son John, and the wives of the two sons.

Roosevelt's victory, said Meyers, was a "death blow" against "reactionary political leadership."

We will also show the mysteries of polarized light, when it is projected through minute chemical crystals. These show a phantasmagoria of ever changing colors on the screen. Then he uses ultra violet light to bring out of dull grey rocks, colors like those of flaming jewels.

Democratic leaders insisted Mr. Roosevelt would be returned a winner on final returns.

Meager Returns

Willkie also led in Maine and Vermont, though by lesser majorities than those won by Alf M. Landon in 1936, in Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, North and South Dakota and Oregon. Returns from Wyoming and Washington were too meager to indicate results, but Roosevelt lead in all the rest.

The outcome was forecast in the early evening when the Cleveland Plain Dealer indicated Roosevelt would carry Ohio. Then the Kansas City Star followed with a concession of Roosevelt's "apparent victory". Just before midnight, both the New York Times and the New York Herald-Tribune conceded the President's unprecedented success.

The President received the news joyfully at his Hyde Park home. Just at midnight he came out to address a crowd of admirers from the front porch of his home. He was in excellent spirits, laughing and chatting with his followers.

Willkie meanwhile remained in seclusion at his New York headquarters. Around 11 p. m. he arranged to address a meeting of admirers in the ballroom of his notel, but he cancelled it without explanation. His followers and lieutenants, cheerful and happy before the returns came in, were overcome with gloom.

Some Surprises In California

Unusual Divergence Is Shown Among Various Sections Of State

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 5.—President Roosevelt easily carried California today with her 22 electoral votes over Wendell Willkie, but the balloting showed a surprising divergence of opinion among various sections of the state.

Latest returns from 7814 incomplete precincts of the state's 13,692 showed: Roosevelt, 1,000,362; Willkie, 692,836.

Two great centers of population, Los Angeles primarily, with San Francisco, put the president over.

These two counties were joined, however, in the strongly Roosevelt group by Fresno, Sacramento, Kern, San Diego, Marin, Riverside and Yolo.

But right across San Francisco Bay, in Alameda the state's third most populous county, the battle was close, with a slight trend to Willkie.

Other large counties on the fence as the vote counting progressed were San Bernardino, Santa Barbara and Santa Clara, although all were slightly Roosevelt.

The important counties comfortably Willkie included Orange, San Mateo and Sonoma.

Lewis Silent On Election Result

(International News Service)

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Nov. 6—John L. Lewis, CIO chieftain who supported Wendell L. Willkie for the presidency and promised to resign if President Roosevelt was reelected, early today (Wednesday) refused to comment on the reelection of Mr. Roosevelt.

Lewis and his family listened to the election returns in the labor leader's Alexandria, Va., home, across the Potomac River from Washington. And at 1:30 a. m. they were still listening—but not talking. It was indicated at the Lewis home that the CIO leader might not make a statement for a day or two.

Some advisers of the burly laborite, who was one of Mr. Roosevelt's top rank supporters in 1936, said they had talked with Lewis and that he was favorably impressed with the size of the popular vote that Willkie was accumulating.

DANGER FROM WITHIN

TOO many persons think there is no longer any point in discussing taxes, debts, budgets and deficits. The demands of the defense program, they reason, make any hope of retrenchment in government spending impossible. They argue that all we can do is go ahead and spend and spend and spend —and put off until happier time the problem of how to do the paying.

If that attitude of mind prevails in this country, we shall destroy ourselves from within while we are zealously preparing against aggression from without.

It is true that we cannot balance the budget now. It is true that the cost of effective defense will materially inflate the debt beyond its present record level of some $50,000,000,000. But it is not true that we must go ahead blindly, on a "never think of the cost" basis.

The duties before congress and the executive department are plain. First, the whole tax system should be studied from the point of view of the economist, not of the politician, in order to make necessary readjustments so that the burden of taxation will fall equitably on all, and disrupt industry, investment and employment as little as possible.

Second, congress must raise taxes, even though it is not considered politically "wise." All brackets must be touched.

Third, every dollar possible must be cut from appropriations for normal government functions and bureaus, and applied to national defense.

Fourth, congress should then, co-operating with the administrative officials, begin to work out a definite plan for amortizing the debt in the future.

Certainly this is not too much to ask of those to whom we have entrusted our government. There is no partisanship involved—political labels are not a factor. It is simply a program for preventing the national bankruptcy that must certainly follow a long-time policy of unlimited, uncontrolled, unconsidered spending.

The relief picture in Pennsylvania continues to brighten. The report for September, issued by the Department of Public Assistance, shows that during the month the relief rolls were lightened to the extent of 22,000 persons.

Twelve out of every 100 men, women and children in the state were still dependent upon some form of state or government aid, the report points out, in September. Much remains to be done, by the practical device of getting jobs for the unemployed. But the situation has steadily improved.

Betterment especially has been noted in the relief set-up administered directly by the state and paid for by the citizens of the state. Further shifts of relief clients to jobs in private industry have helped to lower state dole expenditures by $1,000,000 during September.

This means not only that fewer Pennsylvanians are dependent upon the dole, but that the taxpayers of Pennsylvania are having the immense burden of funds, required for relief needs, reduced.

AIRCRAFT ENGINES

In the last days of October the dedication of two new additions to the Pratt & Whitney aircraft engine plant at Hartford, Connecticut, took place. One of the additions was "British," so called because it was to work on engine orders from England, the other "American" because of orders from the United States government. In September 1,000,000 horsepower was represented in 826 engines in the making at Hartford, 80 per cent of which are earmarked for England.

With everything set for production it takes about five months to turn raw material into an aircraft engine. The present backlog of Pratt & Whitney is about $200,000,000, with contracts for another $200,000,000 pending. The orders now on the books and those about to be signed represent full production capacity of all the plant's new units for at least two years.

Incidentally, the 2,800 Double Wasp Engine, which delivers 1,850 to 2,000 horsepower (with a supercharger), is just coming into production at this Hartford plant.

AN UNSOLVED AIR MYSTERY

The highly speculative report of the Civil Aeronautics Board on the airliner crash near Lovettsville, Virginia, on August 31 does little to dispel the mystery surrounding the worst disaster in the history of American air transport. United States Senator Lundeen and twenty-four others were killed in the accident.

In seeking a cause for the crash, the board considers and rules out sabotage, fire, engine or structural failure and theories that the heavy storm through which the ship was flying threw it out of control or into an inadvertent spin. It hints instead upon the possibility that a bolt of lightning either affected the plane mechanically or disabled the pilots by "acoustical shock, concussion or optical impairment."

An actual lightning stroke on the ship is ruled out because there are no tell-tale marks or damage pointing to it. It may be that a lightning bolt that did not even hit the plane blinded or otherwise incapacitated the pilots, but in the absence of proof to that effect such a theory remains uncertain. Actually the cause of the tragic fall of the liner is still problematical.

Hitler is credited with a series of diplomatic victories among the small powers of Europe. But once the German army is stopped and starts rolling homeward this diplomatic fruit will turn to bitter ashes.

Certainly a war threatened on the Atlantic and the Pacific two or three years before we are ready for it cannot be characterized as a great piece of New Deal diplomatic strategy.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

GIVE CHILD TRUE SENSE OF LIBERTY

Four years ago you and I were shocked to read in the newspapers that students of Harvard University booed a persidential candidate. Today we read of adults and youths presumably of various levels of education, not only booing a presidential candidate but throwing fruit and eggs at him.

Year by year one hears more and more booing at games, fathers and mothers booing with their sons and daughters.

We, who with all our hearts believe in our democracy and are ready, if we need be, to defend it with our lives, certainly do feel ashamed of these growing manifestations of disregard for law and order in our midst, under the guise of liberty and freedom. Are these symptoms that we the people of the United States are degenerating to a level too low to be fit for real democracy?

What To Do

Should anything be done about it? Can anything be done about it? Yes. But how?

By a shift of emphasis on values in our mode of education at home and school. For many years in these United States parents and teachers have been led to believe that freedom of speech and freedom of action are the basic virtues of education. Responsibility, self-sacrifice, respect for the rights of others, and regard for constituted authority have had very minor places. As a result, our younger generation has the notion that democracy means freedom to do about as you please without regard to responsibility or the rights of others.

If we are going to continue to be a democratic nation, we shall have to restore our balance to a saner philosophy and practice of education at home and school. We shall turn our backs upon the prophets, of no-restraint and of do-about-as-you-please.

No! No!

Beginning with the baby at home, his parents, if they want to help save democracy, will train him from the time he begins to toddle in some basic inhibitions, in the meaning of the precious word NO, the A of the alphabet of citizenship. Oh, yes, they will continue to encourage him to express himself but always with due regard for the rights of others.

Specifically, in relation to booing and more boorish conduct at games and other public gatherings, the school can do something right away. Let every teacher from the kindergarten upward indoctrinate the children in good manners, in self-control, in respect for the rights of others. With the fine development of student participation in the modern junior and senior high school, it should be relatively easy to cultivate a wholesome group attitude among the students so that no student would boo or do anything unsportsmanlike at a game or other public meeting without bringing down upon himself the condemnation of his fellows.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

POPULATION FIGURES

The 1940 United States census figures announced recently complete except for a final rechecking, will give our economists and sociologists plenty to think about in the next few years.

Of course, everybody knows that immigration, which for more than a century, had boomed America's growth and development, virtually ceased during the past decade of worldwide depression. In addition, our birthrate has been falling. The result is that our population increase in this decade was only half what it was during the '20's, and at the lowest rate since the nation was founded.

As the nation's population tends to become static, so does the population of the large cities, if indeed they do not now begin to lose.

Probably the most striking fact for us in this region is that the only states to lose population, other than Vermont, were a solid strip through the drought area running from North Dakota through Oklahoma. The largest gains were made by the south and west. Perhaps a relatively higher birthrate south of the Ohio River valley can be credited chiefly with the gains there, and the drift of plains people westward from the "dust bowl" for the gains in the west.

In any case, as representation in the federal government is redistributed, a broad arc, sweeping from the Virginias around through Texas and California to the northwest states is clearly going to have more weight, proportionately, than heretofore.

You may have noticed that the bull throwers always speak in smeary voices. That's how they get what they are after.

MISUNDERSTANDING

G. P. tells us that a British bishop was considerably put out when he received this letter from the vicar of a village in the diocese:

"I regret to inform you that my wife died yesterday. Can you possibly send me a substitute for Sunday?"

"Yes I told Tommy what you said about him," said the doctor's daughter.

"Did you tell him all?" asked the medico. "Did you tell him I thought he was a no-good chap who never would amount to anything and couldn't possibly support you as his wife?"

"I did," replied the girl, "and he said he wouldn't pay any attention to it because it wouldn't be the first wrong diagnosis you had made."

NOT A CHANCE

Doris Dazzle has started attending night school as she plans to become a private secretary and wants to brush up on grammar. The other night the class started on the declination of verbs.

"Miss Dazzle," said the instructor, "will you decline love?"

"Certainly not," replied Miss Dazzle, her nose in the air. "What sort of a world would this be if women declined love?"

This should be a lesson to bell boys:

"My only son is about to marry and I want to do everything possible to establish an entente cordiale so that there will never be any estrangement between him and me. Can you give me any advice?"—Mother-in-law-to-be.

First of all, forget that his wife is an in-law. That word, which I sometimes think should be banished from our language, conjures up suggestions which frequently put up an insurmountable barrier. Why should we feel any more restrained with our in-laws than we do with our friends? Treat her as you would your own daughter, with this exception: Keep all unsolicited suggestions to yourself. Advice coming from a mother-in-law is often interpreted as unwanted interference or as a command. Never drop in, uninvited, to visit her for even an afternoon or an evening. If you would like to make a call, telephone first to ascertain if the moment will be propitious.

Regardless of her extravagance with your son's hard-earned, scanty salary, do not remind her of it. Let your son work out this problem with her. If you have household items that you'd like to offer them, do so in such a way that she can gracefully decline if she does not want them. Be generous with your invitations to meals. Most brides find cooking a hardship and enjoy occasional relief from it.

When they have children, refrain from criticising her "newfangled" ideas about child-rearing, which is one of the sore spots with young mothers. They believe that it is imperative for junior to have his orange juice, mashed bananas and cereal at regular intervals, despite mother-in-law's stories of how she brought up six healthy children without the aid of such modern "fads."

Readers' Questions Answered

Question: Is it always necessary for the bride to furnish gloves and hose for her bridesmaids and matron-of-honor? I feel that this would be a little steep for me. Can it be dispensed with?—Catherine.

Answer: Sometimes, a bride, instead of giving her attendants gifts, will supply each with an item of apparel to be worn at the wedding. It may be hats, gloves or stockings. But it is not necessary for her to supply these items and present the attendants with gifts, too. Either one will be sufficient. The bride's gifts to her attendants should be presented at a luncheon given by her in their honor a few days before her wedding.

When Noah perceiving 'twas time to embark,
Desired his creatures to enter the Ark,
The Dog, with a friendliness truly sublime
Assisted in herding them. Two at a time
He drove in Elephants, Zebras and Gnus
Until they were packed like a box full of screws.
The Cat in the cupboard. The Mouse on the shelf,
The bug in a crack. Then he backed in himself.
But such was the lack of available space
He couldn't tuck all of him into the place
And so, though the rivers rushed over the plain
And down from the heavens rushed blankets of rain,
He stood with his muzzle thrust out of the door
The whole forty days of that terrible pour;
Because of which drenching, the sages unfold,
The nose of a healthy dog always is cold.

What's What At A Glance

Leon Henderson Has Man's Sized Job
Is Trying To Prevent Industrial Boom
War Boom Is Not Genuine Prosperity

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Our national defense commission is showing a very creditable appreciation of the fact that a boom inspired by an enormous demand for war supplies isn't a healthy kind of prosperity.

Leon Henderson is the commission's chief expert at the job of preventing us from over-inflating ourselves economically and thus far he's been handling it pretty competently. How long he'll be able to keep the soft pedal on, as orders pile in for our own defensive equipment and to meet Britain's requirements, is problematic.

Leon is an exceptionally capable economist. He had the hard luck to be appointed to a key post in the NRA organization, in early New Deal days, and it was bad advertising for him, considering the fashion in which the NRA fizzled. However, it wasn't his fault. That boom already had busted. It was too late for him to do much about it. This time he's trying to prevent a boom. If he succeeds in doing it there'll be nothing to bust subsequently.

Henderson acutely realizes that a boom isn't genuine prosperity. He also realizes that war goods haven't any interest value. An individual for instance, may have to tote a gun if he's in a tough neighborhood, but it doesn't satisfy his hunger like food that he eats, or keep him warm, like the clothes he wears. The money he's spent on that gun is just a dead waste as soon as he gets into safer surroundings. His food, on the other hand, is comfortably assimilated into his system and his suit's as serviceable as ever.

Guns Are Not Wealth

So, if an epidemic of gun-toting's unavoidable, all right, says Leon, let's tote 'em, but don't let's assume that guns are wealth in an economic sense.

Leon classes a war with a conflagration.

Now, I can remember the San Francisco earthquake and fire. Directly after that calamity, I recall that a lot of people said "Well, it's too bad. Nevertheless, San Fran's due for a wonderful period of prosperity, for it will have to be rebuilt and it'll make work for everybody."

It did have such a period, too, for a while, while reconstruction was in progress.

But I lived in San Fran a few years later and everything was flatter than a pancake. The reconstruction era was past and the town was beginning to feel the effects of its previous destruction.

It stands to reason that a man can't save up his money for half a lifetime, then throw it in the cookstove and burn it up, and figure that then he'll be wonderfully prosperous because he's got to start over again.

Leon Henderson's position is that we'll be burning our money up (that is to say, wasting our labor) on our armament program. It won't be as bad as actual war, but we may get into that likewise. And then we have a boom, while re-supplying ourselves with the real necessities of life? For a spell, doubtless, as during and after the last war. But it will be snide prosperity. Such is Leon's cerebration.

What he's trying to do is to head off a boom—being sure that booms inevitably pop ultimately.

I have a deal of respect for academic economists, like Leon Henderson, in comparison with some of our big businessmen.

It Puzzled 'Em.

During our last post-war boom I couldn't understand why we were not having a depression instead. It seemed to me that it ought to have been a certainty as a sequel to the 1914-18 conflict. But finally the boom did blow up. Thereupon the senate's banking and currency committee conducted an investigation to determine, if possible, what was the matter with us. All our outstanding financiers were subpenaed as witnesses—including J. P. Morgan and all his satellites.

One after another these birds testified, "The depression puzzles us. We thought there might be a depression, but we didn't know it was going to be as bad as it is."

Why, heck! I knew it. What had stumped me was that it hadn't come sooner. And any time I know more about booms and slumps than J. P. Morgan professes to know, either he isn't speaking quite candidly or else he isn't as wise as I'd supposed him to be.

(That was the time J. P. was photographed with a circus midget in his lap.)

Anyway, another boom is what Leon Henderson is trying to vaccinate us against.

HERITAGE

How much of me am I
In time and place?
How much of years gone by
Is there to trace?
How much of me shall be Living another age
Praising or shaming me,
Talked of as heritage?

How far does life extend Backward, before?
Where does it start and end?
Can one explore
Sources of thought and deed,
Evil and good,
Weakness and strength and read
Rightly each mood?

How much of me am I
And of what's past?
Who was my first to die?
Who'll be the last?
Heritage! Just how far
Onward it flows
Making us what we are
Nobody knows!

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

The world appears to be tobogganing into managed economy. Geneticists insist that we must have a managed biology—the dictators are already bringing it through—and now it begins to look as if we were in for managed sport. News that the Brooklyn Dodgers took moving pictures of their late-season practice and games, for slow-motion study in the winter, is too deep in the trend of the times for comfort.

Sport always has been a King's-X domain, free from the harsh certainties and hard logic of science. It has been a land where anything could happen. Cellar champs may be lifted to the top by some sudden afflatus. The palooka may miraculously find himself and smack a baseball or his ring opponent clear over into the next county. And it is never beyond the bounds of possibility that some aging ball player, ready for a waiver or the old soldiers' home, will clout the ball over the fence in the ninth, bring in four runs, make the score 5 to 4, and fill the stands with an ecstatic mania. It can happen here.

Jacques Futrelle, who went down on the Titanic, wrote some cracking good stories, one of them about an unpleasant old professor who had such a phenomenal brain that he got the Indian sign on everybody else in the world and thereafter ran the works. His knowledge of human motivations became such that he was able to apply exactly the needed stimulus to induce any desired action. There's the danger of any one outfit filching a pattern of certainty in a universe in which everything worth while seems to have evolved from divine uncertainties. Science is interested only in jug-handled deals. Its business is to eliminate uncertainties. Perhaps that's the way to win ball games and wars, but somehow I find that, here, these meditations get into a dead-end. Two things that science doesn't seem to understand are a poet and a genius.

They figure in both baseball and war. There will be hope for the world as long as a short-ender like the Dodgers, for instance, David vs Goliath, or a hundred-to-one shot at Empire City can still get in the money. The economic man of Karl Marx has, on closer examination, been revealed as a straw man. The biological man of the Nazis is going strong at the moment, but his birthright is written in the blood of better men and he can prevail only by the destruction of all civilization. Both claimed the high sanctions of science; the latter filching miracles of science for its murderous ends.

One of these synthetic men is a ghost and the other is a monster. In between lies the forever-mysterious human being, of whom Walt Whitman said, "I myself am good fortune." He is chivalry and democracy, and faith and creativeness—all essences of the spirit which science can't calculate or calibrate. That's why we feel downhearted about the intrusion of science on sport. As to war, we may have to go the distance with science, but

Mrs. Dixon Held On Murder Charge

Coroner's Jury Recommends Woman Charged With Slaying Husband Be Held

JOINT HEARING BRINGS OUT FACTS

Following a joint hearing and inquest, held before Alderman B. J. Biondi, of the Eighth ward, and Coroner T. F. Nugent, in the office of Biondi on Long avenue, Monday afternoon, Mrs. Liela Mae Dixon, of 20 East Division street, was held for the December term of court on a charge of murder and was taken back to jail to await the action of the grand jury.

The coroner's jury, composed of Peter Rupp, M. J. Babiarz, Dominic Gabriel, Appollo Smith, C. E. Allen and Frank Nugent, rendered a verdict that Dixon had come to his death in the New Castle hospital on the morning of October 26, at 12:57 o'clock from a wound inflicted by a sharp instrument, which severed the jugular vein, and that in their opinion, this wound was inflicted by Mrs. Dixon.

Warren Taylor, of 213½ Weaver street; James Hill, of 303 Mahoning avenue; Robert Mitchell, of 1304 Howard way, and Andrew Jones, of 931½ Moravia street, all told of being at the Elks Rest on West Home street, and of assisting in taking Dixon to the hospital. None of the witnesses stated that they saw Dixon receive the fatal wound. Taylor stated that Dixon asked him to notify his father, stating that he was dying.

Love Johnson of 1127½ Moravia street, stated that she was on her way to the home of her cousin near the Elks Rest on Home street, when she came across Mr. and Mrs. Dixon arguing on a sidewalk coming out along the Elks club. They later moved across the street from the club, where a driveway goes into the old Penn Coal and Supply property, where the argument was continued. She said that Dixon had his wife by the wrists. She said she heard Mrs. Dixon say something to her husband about hitting her, and heard him say not to push him any more. Then she saw Mrs. Dixon's arm go back as if to strike, but that she did not see any knife in Mrs. Dixon's hand. She said Mrs. Dixon walked away a few steps and looked back at him, saying: "That will fix you, you — — — —." He came back across the street towards the Elks home and she said she could see that Dixon was bleeding terribly from a wound in the left side of the neck, the blood falling on the street like rain. She said she went in the front entrance of the Elks Rest out the side door and then on home.

Officer Ray Showalter told of being notified about a cutting affair at the Elks Rest and of going to the scene in company with Lieut. George Kennedy and Officer Wayne Sines. On the way they came across Mrs. Dixon, whom they knew from past experience, and that they stopped and arrested her. He said he asked her what she had done with the knife with which she cut her husband, and she said she had thrown it alongside the fence across the street from the Elks home. They were unable to find it, however. Showalter stated that Mrs. Dixon admitted she had cut her husband.

The statement of Dr. Charles H. Whalen, relative to the cause of death was read by Dr. Nugent, in which death was said to have been caused by a severance of the left jugular vein.

Cavalry Equipment Returned To State

Motor Equipment For Battery Will Not Be Received At Armory Here

Captain George F. Mitchell, of Battery F, states that about 8000 pounds of cavalry equipment was shipped back to the state arsenal, via Pennsylvania Railroad, Monday.

The shipment comprised saddles, bridles, blankets, gun boots, rifles, kitchen packs, machine guns, machine gun packs, blacksmith tools, veterinary kit, and saddlers tools.

Captain Mitchell was advised Sunday, that the motor equipment for Battery F will not be issued, until the Battery's arrival at the concentration area, which time is anticipated to be about January 1. The mobilization point will be at Camp Shelby, Mississippi.

Owing to the change over in the equipment, there will be insufficient time to receive the new equipment to prepare the Battery for participation in the Armistice Day parade, on Monday, November 11.

Population Trend Toward Rural Areas

Preliminary Study Of 1940 Census Figures Shows Trend In State

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 5.—A preliminary study of the 1940 census figures by the state planning board reveals a decided population trend toward rural areas.

According to a report by the board, the population of Pennsylvania as well as the United States is no longer concentrated in the great cities.

"The noise, stir, congestion and expense of living in the metropolitan areas seem finally to have repelled rather than attracted new inhabitants," the board declared.

Explaining the congestions of population in such localities as Berlin, London and New York, the board stated that "they seem to have reached and even passed the safe limits of size."

"These areas have very low birth rates," they added, "and in many, if not most large cities, births are relatively so few as to be outnumbered by deaths even with a declining mortality rate."

Citing specific examples to prove its contention, the board explained that Dearborn, Michigan, which grew 2,000 per cent. between 1920 and 1930 fell to only a 26 per cent. increase in 1940. Detroit which grew 60 per cent between 1920 and 1930, grew only three per cent. in the past decade.

The board revealed that the tendency to live in communities with more "living space" was quite apparent in the state's central and northern counties where the population increase has been above average.

"If such population trends continue during the next 10 years," the board said, "the great cities will become increasingly less important in deciding our future elections."

That tattered old "playing fields of Eton" line still has meaning. Fancy England knocking over Germany and a gent in morning coat and pince-nez addressing a rejoicing multitude. "Men," he says, "the battles of England were won in the test tubes of Woolwich!" It doesn't quite come off. Bring on your test tubes if we must have them, but figure in Ebbets field in the battles of America. And don't forget that the genius and brawn of a Jim Thorpe and Eddie Mahan or a Babe Ruth were not conjured up in a laboratory.

YOU CAN GET A LOAN OF $100

IF YOU CAN PAY BACK $6.97 A MONTH

No endorsers or guarantors needed—No credit questions asked of friends or relatives—Your loan promptly arranged in a brief, private interview

WOULD you like to get a cash loan without having to ask friends or relatives for a favor? At Household Finance you can borrow $20 to $300—without endorsers or guarantors—if you can make small monthly payments on your loan. We require no stocks or bonds, no wage or salary assignment. You borrow on your own signature; your friends are not asked to sign the papers with you.

Choose your own payment plan

See, in the table below, how you may repay your loan in convenient monthly installments which fit your own income. You may repay in small installments spread over 18 months. Or you may repay sooner to reduce the charges.

Suppose that you need a $100 loan. You find this amount in the first column of the table. Then read across picking out the monthly payment which you wish to make. You will see, for instance, that monthly installments of $9.75 each will repay a $100 loan in full in 12 months. Or, if you wish smaller payments, as little as $6.97 a month for 18 months will also repay a $100 loan.

Same rate to everyone

Installments in the table cover everything. They include charges at Household's rate of 2½% per month on that part of a balance not exceeding $100, and 2% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $100. This rate is less than the maximum prescribed by the Small Loan Law. Household has only this one rate—the same for everyone, whether new customer or former borrower.

No one else need know

When you borrow at Household, there is no need to ask friends or fellow-workers to sign the loan papers with you. (Loans are made on furniture, car or note.) So that your loan may remain your private affair, we do not ask friends or relatives about your credit. If you should be faced with sickness or unemployment while paying on a loan, Household will show you every consideration. Last year we foreclosed on only one chattel mortgage for each 20,000 loans—an action taken then only as protection against fraud.

If a loan will help you, you are urged to look at the table again. Then phone or visit us for further information. You will be under no obligation to borrow.

Missionary Forum At Second Church

Approximately 150 Attend Forum Discussions; Missionary Team Answers Questions

Approximately 150 people from the churches of this section of Beaver Valley Presbytery gathered in the Second U. P. church, County Line and Milton streets, Monday evening for the Missionary Forum, conducted under the auspices of the Foreign Mission Board of the United Presbyterian church.

The missionary team was composed of Dr. G. P. Reed, Dr. R. W. Caldwell, representing the foreign board; Dr. W. W. Hickman, representing the mission field, and Mrs. J. P. White, editor of the Women's Missionary magazine, representing the women's board.

They brought encouraging word from all mission fields. Mission work, thus far, they said, has not been seriously hampered by the war. Schools in Egypt are better attended this fall and more interest is manifest than ever before. The church in Ethiopia, where there is only one missionary, is going forward splendidly in spite of the fact that the missionary force has had to be withdrawn.

A devotional service preceded the forum, after which questions were answered by the team. Dr. Caldwell had charge of the event and presided over the meeting.

Among the churches represented were the four U. P. churches of this city, Bethel, Center, Wurtemburg, Oak Grove, Mahoning, Mt. Jackson and New Galilee.

No one really knows who discovered gold in the Klondike, Alaska. It was first known when the steamer Excelsior steamed into San Francisco harbor with $750,000 in gold in her hold. Four days later a wooden steamer, Portland, came into the same port with a $2,000,000 cargo of gold.

...you couldn't buy better fitting shoes than these Dickerson models. Dickerson shoes have many comfort features not found in any other shoes. They have more toe room — size for size — than other smart footwear. They have a tiny cushion of live-rubber (patented) concealed in the sole to relieve the pressure that so often causes tenderness at the ball of the foot. They have (in most models) Gypsy vamps — tailored instead of stretched to fit the foot. All models have Insoluhyte between the inner and outer soles — a natural insulating material that forms a cushion tread and makes the soles lighter and more flexible. And Dickerson shoes are made on 18 different lasts so that we can fit all normal foot shapes perfectly!
We take great pride in our careful, expert fitting of these supremely comfortable shoes. Widths AAAAAA to EE, Sizes 1 to eleven.

Colorado Girl Battling Death From Botulism

State Guard Plane Makes Perilous Landing With Serum Seeking To Save Life Of Child

(International News Service)

DENVER, Nov. 5.—A 5-year-old Cortez, Colo., girl today was given a chance to recover from a serious case of botulism poisoning after a National Guard plane won a race with death carrying the serum necessary to save the girl's life.

Gov. Ralph L. Carr ordered Major Harrison J. Wellman, commander of the Colorado guard air force, to pilot the plane with the serum to Cortez when it was learned Betty Sue Sadler might die, as did her sister, from eating poisoned canned goods.

The plane took off from Denver late yesterday and 40 minutes later was above Cortez with the serum for Betty Sue. On the ground cars lined the field with headlights burning and flares were placed to show the outline of the small field.

Circling the landing field for 50 minutes the plane was finally able to land and the serum was rushed by automobile to the girl.

How One Woman Lost 20 Pounds of Fat

Lost Her Double Chin

Lost Her Prominent Hips

Lost Her Sluggishness

Gained in Attractiveness Gained a Shapely Figure

When your bowels and kidneys fail to perform their work correctly your system cannot throw off the waste materials and digestion becomes deranged—you lose energy and activity. Perhaps before you realize it you're losing your appeal and getting objectionably fat.

Take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning; cut out pastry, fatty meats—and go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar. In three weeks get on the scales and see how many pounds of fat have vanished; notice also that you have gained in energy—your skin seems clearer and eyes brighter—you feel younger in body and keener in mind.

Get a bottle of Kruschen Salts—plain or new effervescent—sparkling—pleasant, at Eckerd's Drug Stores and leading druggists everywhere; lasts 4 weeks and is inexpensive.

Train 26,000 Auto Drivers In Two Years

Highway Safety Education Department Of W. P. A. Makes Report

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 5.—A two-year-record of training 26,000 drivers, of whom less than half of one per cent have had accidents for which they were responsible, is claimed by the Pennsylvania works projects administration.

C. V. Bowen, state superintendent of highway safety education for the W. P. A., declared the records proved the project practical and asked for the co-operation of the state as well as the various communities.

Driving schools at present are operating in 61 boroughs and cities with recently opened schools located in Aliquippa, Kane, Connellsville, Waynesburg, Carbondale, Huntingdon and Ellwood City.

The course, divided into two parts, features a 20-hour class-room period and, after this is successfully passed, a 24-hour driving session, divided into 12 two-hour sessions.

Following the successful completion of both types of training, the W. P. A. turns the student driver over to the Pennsylvania motor police for the required examination. Should a weakness be detected in the driver's ability, a further training session is prescribed.

To date, about 250 instructors are employed on the project. Students are charged between $3 and $4 which is used to defer such expenses as gasoline, oil and tires.

Still, Roosevelt nominated a vice president without asking anybody's approval and Republicans didn't fuss about that.

MOTHER OF LOCAL MAN DIES IN SOUTH

Word has been received in this city of the death of Mrs. G. Sidney Propst, of Drexel, North Carolina, which occurred in the Grace Memorial hospital, at Morgantown, N. C.

Clifford M. Propst, a son, of 318 North Beaver street, was called to his mother's bedside several days ago, arriving there on Sunday evening, just before she lapsed into unconsciousness. Death came Monday evening at 6:15 o'clock, the result of failing health following a stroke suffered two years ago.

The body will be removed from the family home at Drexel, N. C., on Thursday, for burial at St. James Lutheran cemetery at Newton, N. C.

The experts say Willkie can't win, for the same groups and influences that elected Roosevelt in '36 will do it again, but anyway it's a comfort to know that America has another big man.

Political Parade Gives Up Ghost

Red Fire Parades Are Matter Of History Says New Yorker

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Blaring bands, marching crowds, banners, boxes, streamers, red flares and torches—the political parade that was has given up the ghost.

It's the erend of the times, take it from I. C. Newman. For 48 years his business has been selling torches and red flares for political parades adn providing fireworks displays for political gatherings.

"We used to have parades in presidential campaigns that began in the afternoon and ended late at night," he said, wistfully. "As many as 75,000 people would be in those parades—labor unions, political workers, party big shots and just people who liked to march.

'Parades used to be important to getting votes, but now it's the radio," he said.

Throughout the years the Democrats have been the better customers, Newman said.

"Especially in New York City. The Democrats were in office for so many years and they had to put on parades to give their party members a good show."

It's the local office races that bring out the street displays today, Newman said. Automobiles, though, have taken the place of marchers, and banners are draped on the cars rather than borne proudly by loyal party workers.

Red flares have replaced the old-time kerosene flares—they're safer and brighter—"like seasoning you put in soup," Newman said.

The "seasoning" comes high, however. A big parade might have over 10,000 flares, costing $1,300.

As we understand the Jap threat, they will get mad enough to fight us if we quit giving them the material to fight us with.

Boy Scouts Will Be In Armistice Day Parade Here

Expect More Than 500 Boys To Take Part In Event As Troop Units

This year's Armistice Day parade will see one of the largest turnouts of Boy Scouts in many years. Plans were announced today by John J. Finnessy, Scout Executive, for a general roll call of all troops to participate in the parade on that day.

It is expected that at least 500 Scouts, attired in full uniform, will march in troop formation in the parade here on November 11. Each troop will be headed by its leaders and will an American as well as a troop flag displayed.

All New Castle Scouts who plan to take part in the parade are to meet at the Legion Home at 9 o'clock on the morning of November 11, at which time parade assignments will be made.

AROUND CITY HALL

During city council meeting held in the municipal building Monday councilmen approved a motion submitted by Improvements Director W. H. Dunlap, requesting approval of the WPA of a project for the elimination of the north curve on State street hill. The north bank will be cut back 15 feet. As soon as approval has been issued, work will get under way. The city will reinforce the embankment with a stone wall, Dunlap reported.

Mrs. Alice Kahrer was employed temporarily as a tax lien clerk in the office of the city solicitor.

Council has been notified of a court decision cutting $1,590, from the Neshannock avenue property assessment of John Book.

Safety Director D. O. Davies presented a motion which passed, ordering installation of a street light in Carlisle street near Clenmore boulevard.

Mr. and Mrs. Neal Williams were in city hall Monday and were presented with wedding gifts, including a floor lamp and set of dishes by city employes. The presentation was made by Mayor Charles B. Mayne. Mrs. Williams is the former Mrs. Jennie Sankey who resigned as chief clerk to the assessor's bureau October 31. Mr. Williams is a clerk in the city's bureau building. They were wed recently.

Council on Thursday.. will view Edison avenue between Wilmington avenue and Green street, a petition having asked that the street be graded as a city-WPA project.

When council met Monday in city hall, colleagues approved a motion by Improvements Director W. H. Dunlap that the journey to Washington and Harrisburg of Councilmen J. D. Alexander and D. O. Davies and City Engineer Glenn R. Throop be approved. The officials went there in the hope of obtaining funds for the further development of the New Castle airport.

"Poppy Day" Sale On November 9

Poppies Made By Disabled World War Veterans Are Received; Corps Of Girls In Charge

Poppies which will be worn here in memory of the World War dead on Poppy Day, November 9, have been received by the Perry S. Gaston post No. 343, of the American Legion auxiliary from the poppy work rooms, where they have been made by disabled war veterans. The flowers are crepe paper replicas of the famous poppies of France and Flanders, that flourished and bloomed amid the war's desolation.

"Each flower has been made with painstaking care by some disabled World War veteran," Mrs. John Wilson, poppy chairman of the auxiliary, explains. "They are made to represent as closely as possible the little red flowers that these men saw in the fields of France where so many of their comrades still lie. Their significance comes from the sacrifices of those thousands of brave young Americans who died in the country's service on the battle field of France."

Making the poppies has provided employment for many hundreds of disabled men through the winter and spring months. The work not only has enabled them to help support themselves and families, but also has been valuable as occupational therapy. It has been conducted in veterans' hospitals and in special poppy workrooms in every part of the country. Disabled veterans receiving little or no government compensation are the only ones employed in the poppy program. Preference is given to those with dependent families. The work is a Godsend to these men who could not possibly find or perform other employment.

There will be a corps of girls, approximately 30, in different parts of the city on Saturday to sell these poppies, so do your part to help the disabled veterans. It is hoped the people of New Castle will give their utmost support.

Expect Over 4,000,000 To Vote In Pennsylvania

State Big Factor In Nation's Vote

Thirty-Six Electoral Votes May Be Vital In Presidential Choice

MARCH TO POLLS IS STARTED EARLY

By EVERETT GERRY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 5.—Pennsylvania voters trooped to the polls today to render a verdict in the bitterly contested presidential election, along with the rest of the nation.

Amid signs of a close vote, more than 4,000,000 of the state's 5,020,000 registered voters were expected to swell the turnout in the most turbulent national election in years.

President Roosevelt's third term bid for re-election and whether he or his Republican opponent, Wendell L. Willkie, was best fitted to keep the United States out of the spreading world war were paramount issues before the electorate.

Polls Close At 8

With fair weather predicted over most of the commonwealth, there were indications that the voters would come out in record numbers, perhaps in excess of the 1936 election when 4,044,000 electors cast ballots.

A steady march to election booths was witnessed from the opening of the state's 8113 polling precincts until closing at 8 p. m.

Although it was technically possible for 5,000,000 voters to participate in the election, elections bureau officials estimated that at least 500,000 in the state would fail to exercise their franchise.

Pennsylvania's 36 electoral votes, second biggest bloc in the nation, were viewed by many as a tremendous factor in determining the presidential contest. How the vote in this state goes may decide whether Mr. Roosevelt will get a third term or if Wendell Willkie will be his successor in 1941, it was believed.

Both parties made spirited efforts to capture that vote.

Willkie To Get Big Majority In Elwood, Ind.

(International News Service)

ELWOOD, Ind., Nov. 5.—Supporters of Wendell L. Willkie predicted today that he would carry every one of the 10 precincts in Elwood, his birthplace, by thumping majorities.

Willkie workers canvassed this city of 11,000 population to insure that a record vote will be cast. Almost three months ago, Elwood, as the scene of the notification ceremonies for the G.O.P. presidential nominee, was the Republican capitol of the nation for a day.

Elwood normally is 1,100 Democratic. Because Willkie is a home town boy, this city is expected to that big.

give the Republicans a majority

G.O.P. headquarters will be a beehive of activity tonight. Local returns will be tabulated fast and sent instantly to the outside world.

Chests Of Nation Report $13,686,111

Campaign Leaders Here Spurred By Report; Want $60,500

Seventy-five Community Chests throughout the nation have raised $13,686,111 this fall, or an increase of 2.9 per cent over the total the same 75 subscribed last year, Mrs. Winifred Cooney, executive secretary of the New Castle Chest organization, reported today.

She said two-thirds of the chests have topped their goals, some by a five per cent margin. The average success for the 75 as a whole is 99.4 per cent.

As the national figures reached here today, local campaign leaders vowed anew that we'll get our $60,500." They plan to reach that total even if it does take a good bit of additional work.

"When workers have made their full reports and when all of the industries have reported," Mrs. Cooney explained, "we hope to report to the Community Chests and Councils, Inc., in New York that we have topped our goal."

The New Castle Chest is one of 560 which form the national organization.

DAILY DOZEN
(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)
Napoleon is pictured with his hand inside his shirt.
Did he have the itch?
Medical authorities believe he did not have scabies.
But he did have an itching skin disease most of his adult life.
Scabies came to America with the very first arrivals.
The early Colonists had difficulties with the pesky itch mite.
Soldiers and civilians had it during the Rebellion.
Benjamin Franklin's mother-in-law had a cure for it.
She advertised in the Pennsylvania Gazzette in 1731.
She had an ointment for the itch, sure to cure.
There is little excuse for scabies. Cleanliness and care of clothing will discourage it.
The weakness in Willkie's crusade to save America is that so many millions don't want it saved if it requires any change.

Michigan May Halt Minnesota Saturday

Believe Winner Of Important Game Will Be Big Ten Champion This Year

Navy Tangles With Notre Dame At New York, Stanford Meets Washington On Coast

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—From a national standpoint, eastern and southern football will be shunted aside on the coming weekend and the big battle of the day will be waged at Minneapolis with Minnesota lined up against Michigan and Tom Harmon. The winner probably will go on to the Big Ten championship and may finish the season unbeaten and untied, although Michigan has a date for later with Northwestern, and this could complicate things.

Next to the Minneapolis tussle, the biggest thing on the slate will be the clash at Palo Alto between Stanford's rampaging Indians and Washington, the winner probably to be eventual Pacific Coast titleholder and, in that case, Rose Bowl opponent for some eastern eleven.

While Stanford, like Minnesota and Michigan in that other loop, has a perfect record to date, Washington has dropped one in intersectional warfare. That was the opening game of the year with Minnesota.

Navy Vs. Notre Dame

And next behind the Minneapolis and Palo Alto spectacles will come that skirmish down at Dallas, bringing Texas A. and M. and John Kimbrough against Southern Methodist, with the Aggies trundling along seemingly to another unbeaten season and another conference championship in their sector.

In contrast to all that, we find Tennessee, the southern leader, coming against another of its frequent setups in little Southwestern.

The best game in the east will be intersectional skirmishing between once-beaten Navy and once-frightened Notre Dame.

In other games involving unbeaten eastern clubs Georgetown works out against Maryland, Boston College gives the lumps to Boston University and Cornell will prove with practically no difficulty at all that football has been de-emphasized at Yale.

Getting back to the big games of the day, it may be significant to remember that Washington and Michigan had open dates on their schedules last week-end and will be rested and raring to go for what probably will turn out to be the big games on their schedules for the season. They come to the point where they do or they don't on this roll of the dice.

Stanford Surprises

In the midst of the tussling will be Harmon and Kimbrough adding whatever prestige they can en route to almost certain All-America honors. Neither has been thoroughly stopped so far. Each, in fact, has looked a little better all the time and will be the men their opponents will be called upon to take care of.

Naturally, the big surprise of this season is Stanford's rise under the tutelage of Clark Shaughnessy, who has given it a game modelled after that of the Chicago Bears of the National professional league and has made it good. Shaughnessy got this, of course, while he was coaching Chicago University, now de-emphasized out of the football business.

In conclusion, we'd like to mention that if anybody has any information as to how the Michigan-Minnesota and Stanford-Washington games are going to turn out we'd like to know about it.

BUTCHER TO BOX TURNER

District And Golden Glove Champions On Monday's Card

There'll be little fair weather-going when Al Turner of Pittsburgh, 175-pound champion of the Alleghenies Mountain association and Ralph Butcher, Meadville's heavy-fisted light-heavyweight champion clash in the main bout of the Arena boxing docket next Monday night. According to reports Butcher is one of the best amateur fighters yet to be seen hereabouts.

In another bout, Henry Pratt of Pittsburgh, who has won titles five times as either a flyweight, bantamweight or featherweight will take on the southpaw Ralph (Baby Face) Costa of Meadville in the semi-final. The "Baby Face" lad is a rather tough customer and figures to give Pratt plenty of trouble. Louie Severe, ex-pro' is "Baby Face's" tutor.

Another bout that has been arranged is a flyweight battle between Sunny Rose of McKeesport and Ray Miller of Meadville. Like "Baby Face", Miller is a Golden Glove champion. This line-up, so far, shows Butcher, who beat the National A. A. U. 175-pound champion, according to reports, Turner, Pratt and Costa, divisional or "G. G." champs on the card.

Opponents are being sought for Russell Baxter, 147 and Les Leasure, known as the "Canco Kid," also a welterweight. They are New Castle fighters. Baxter has fought several times and shows prospects of going places. Leasure scored a win in his only bout.

The card will be presented by the Jefferson A. C., Armistice night.

McCarthy Signs With Yanks For Season Of 1941

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 5—There will be many changes in the New York Yankees lineup next year, according to reports, but this much was certain today:

Joe McCarthy will return to manage the former four-times world champions.

President Ed Barrow of the Yanks announced that McCarthy, in a telephone conversation from his home in Buffalo, had agreed to terms for next season. Barrow said McCarthy will sign the new document later in the year.

McCarthy's three-year agreement with the club expires this year and his new contract is expected to be for more than one term. Although salary terms were not discussed, it is believed Marse Joe will receive approximately $35,000 per annum.

Bears To Play At Youngstown

The Wabash Bears of Mahoningtown will go to Youngstown, Ohio on Sunday to play a return game with the fast Scher Tailors at Evans Field at 2:30 o'clock. The two teams played a 6-6 tie here last Sunday.

Blackie Adamo is now the sole coach of the Bears, Harry Tuscano having resigned as co-coach of the team. The Bears will workout every night this week at the E. & A. Field at 4:30 o'clock.

Campbell High Here On Friday For Grid Battle

Will Bring Big Team Here With Only One Blemish On Record To Date

FREDDY McKEE WILL BE MISSED

Back on the New Castle High grid schedule for the first time since 1933, Campbell Memorial High is preparing to invade Taggart Stadium on Friday night of this week to battle the "Red Hurricane." The game will start at 8 o'clock.

The last time these two teams met Campbell suffered a 20 to 0 defeat. The Ohioans will be out to avenge that setback. The only loss the Campbells have suffered this year was to Youngstown East 13 to 0. New Castle trimmed East 19 to 7.

Will Miss McKee

The leg injury suffered by Freddy McKee will in all probability keep him out of the lineup for the rest of the season. His services are going to be missed no end. McKee in the past two years has developed into a most dependable quarterback, from which post his blocking has been perfect. His generalship on the field has commanded the respect of all of the coaches.

Either Rags Gennock or Joe Izzo will be used at quarter in the Campbell game it was indicated. Neither has had much experience at the post, but both are willing workers.

Expect Big Crowd

No doubt Campbell High will bring a big crowd to New Castle for the battle. Campbell has been followed by large crowds all year. The idea that they may defeat New Castle this year has aroused quite a bit of enthusiasm in the Ohio city.

Campbell would like nothing better than to be the team to snap the local winning streak of seven straight games. So far this year Campbell has beaten such teams as Youngstown South 20 to 7; 19 to 0 over Chaney; 7 to 6 over Warren Harding High; 19 to 0 over Steubenville.

The game was originally set for either Friday or Saturday depending on the weather, and the high officials have decided on Friday night.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Tommy Harmon of Michigan remains the scoring ace in the national football race. He has earned 87 points, one more than Walter Domina of Norwich U. . . . J. L. Palmer, guard, Pehlham, Ga., high school, died from a vertebrae injury received Friday with the Montivello, Fal., high eleven. . . . Bernie Crimmins will start as fullback for Notre Dame against Navy next Saturday. . . . One hundred and fifty Altoona high school youths who won a holiday because of high marks, got a vacation the first day of hunting season, reported bagging 215 rabbits, 97 squirrels, 36 grouse, quail, pheasants and one turkey. . . . The fistic show in The Arena Monday will be the greatest yet staged in this city. In addition to Henry Pratt, Al Turner, Baby Face Costa and Ralph Butcher, Frankie Moran will box Eddie Sulk; Russell Baxter will box Joe Stranner, Les Leasure will fight Tommy Penrod and Tony Arkett will meet Ray Miller. . . . Farrell has a clean slate, a splendid team and has won all nine games this season. . . . There are 31 undefeated and untied football machines in the country among them being Bethany, Indiana, Pa., Teachers and Millersburg, Pa., Teachers. . . . Abe Simon of New York and Roscoe Toles, Detroit, will box in the latter city, November 22. . . . Tony Musto, Chicago and Arturo Godoy, Chilean, heavies, will box in the Cleveland News Christmas fund show, in Cleveland, December 2. . . . Connie Mack, manager of the A's, has joined the Baseball Veterans Association, Secretary A. H. McCracken, Brookville, Pa., reported today.

Herb Nelson, Pennsylvania sophomore end of West Hartford, Conn., comes from a football family. One brother played at Wisconsin, another at Temple.

SHE'S CALIFORNIA SUN GODDESS

Miss Joan Leslie, chosen as "Sun Goddess" of the Southern California All-Winter Sun festival, will preside over many of the 300 fiestas, flower festivals, athletic and other events of the festival.

Sport trail jottings—Joe McCree, Bessemer High's 17-year-old senior quarterback, is an honor student in addition to being one of the most versatile hands on the squad. Like thousands of other boys, he'd like to go to Notre Dame. . . . Basketball practice has already started at New Castle High. Gennock, Bucci and Zubkowsky, three standouts, will join the flipping brigade at the close of the grid campaign. . . .

"Tuss" McLaughry, the ex-Westminster College great, is turning in another coaching gem at Brown. His clan was booked for a drubbing at the hands of Holy Cross two weeks ago. Brown fooled the boys with a 9-6 victory. Last Saturday, McLaughry's proteges bumped off favored Yale, 6-2. This week, Brown goes against Army with a better than 50-50 chance of scuttling the Kaydets. . . .

Minnesota will seek its seventh consecutive triumph over Michigan when the Goliaths clash this week-end in Minneapolis. . . . Stanford rates as a favorite over Washington because the Huskies are noted for performing poorly at Palo, Alto, science of the important coast clash this Saturday. . . . Purdue completed 19 out of 48 passes for a net gain of 316 yards in its first four tilts. . . .

The New York Yankees' traditional generosity in splitting up the world series melon stands out like a sore thumb when you compare the ex-champs with the St. Louis Cards in this respect. The Yanks split show money 42 ways at $546 a share. The Cardinals split their end 28 ways at $711 a slice.

Harvey Harmon, the former New Castle High gridster, is again doing quite well as coach of Rutgers. So far, Rutgers has dropped but one tiff, that to Princeton. Harmon is telling everyone that his gang may spoil Lafayette's dream of a perfect season this week-end. "If we don't do it, no one else will," Harmon says regarding the Lafayette clash.

Farrell High, which ended its season with nine consecutive wins, is being touted as the best scholastic eleven in the state. . . . Joe DeFranco, a member of Notre Dame's football team last year, is a G-man in Washington. . . . Jim Thorpe, the grid immortal, is coaching his 13-year-old son to play baseball. . . .

Harris Signs With Senators For 1941 Season

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Stanley "Bucky" Harris, baseball's "boy wonder" manager of 1934, today was the Washington Senator's leader for another year, after reportedly refusing an offer from the Cleveland Indians.

Harris cleared up all rumors that he was going to succeed Oscar Vitt as manager of the Cleveland club by signing a one-year contract yesterday with the Senators. Terms of the contract were not disclosed by Senators' owner, Clark Griffith.

Harris' 1941 season with the seventh-place Senators will mark his 18th consecutive year as a big league manager, seven of them with Washington.

Table cloths take a whipping when the Santa Clara football team goes traveling. Each day at noon Coach Buck Shaw has his men diagram plays for him on the blackboard. They've got the habit now.

Outfielder Charley Gilbert will be given another chance with the Dodgers next Spring. He spent part of the Summer at the Montreal farm.

Although Southern California defeated Illinois, 13 to 7, the Illini penetrated into danger territory moral often than the Trojans, statistics show. Illinois was inside the Southern Cal 20-yard line five times, to twice for the Trojans. U. S. C. was past Illinois' 40 only three times, and past the 30 twice.

Ken Overlin, the world's middleweight champion, was a halfback on the U. S. S. Tennessee in his seven years, and he was so good he was picked to play under Tom Himilton, later the United States Naval Academy coach, on an all-Navy team.

Michigan-Minnesota, Stanford-Washington Clashes Top Grid Show

Topped by the all-important Western Conference clash between Michigan and Minnesota at Minneapolis and the Pacific Coast duel between Stanford and Washington at Palo Alto, Cal., the week's football card is the most attractive yet this season. Other standout games for Nov. 9 bring together Notre Dame and Navy at Baltimore, Southern Methodist and Texas A. & M. at Dallas, Nebraska and Iowa at Lincoln and Louisiana and Mississippi State at Baton Rouge, La. Intersectional games for the week-end include Fordham-Purdue, Holy Cross-Mississippi, Columbia-Wisconsin and Manhattan-Marquette.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

Today is the day we take the government in our own hands . . . today we run things . . . we decided today what will happen in the next four years . . . we hope that each and everyone of you good Americans thought clearly before you voted . . . Uncle Sam thanks you.

One of the heaviest votes that has ever been cast here in the United States will be cast today . . . this morning at seven thirty-five most every precinct in the city was voting the population at one per minute . . . just how long this pace would hold up is hard to say . . . but more people than ever before will be at the polls today and exercise their power . . . remember the polls will be open until eight o'clock tonight . . . election returns will be flashed on the screen in front of this office tonight.

Just to show you how some people talk and don't know what they are talking about . . . a woman came into a place of business the other day and started talking about the world . . . how bad it was and during her conversation touched on the local Community Chest . . . she said she thought it was terrible, she would never support it again, why didn't she go up to their office the other day and ask for a loan and hadn't they refused her . . . why she was very indignant . . . upon investigating we found that the woman was talking about a loan company and when this was explained, she hung her head and walked away. See how some people talk and then find that their talk was all wrong . . . we should think twice before condemning anyone or anything.

Mistakes Fox For Raccoon? Bags It? Rare Circumstance

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 5.—Here's one mistake that turned out to be a pleasant surprise for Clyde Feree of Park Gate. Mr. Feree went hunting last night in Brenneman's Woods, for raccoon.

After being in the woods a short time, Mr. Feree saw what he thought to be a big raccoon close to him and his dog chased the animal up a tree. Mr. Feree blazed away at the furry animal.

Racing up as the 'coon fell to the ground, Mr. Feree had the biggest surprise of his life—he hadn't killed a raccoon at all—he had shot a big gray fox.

P. S. It is seldom that a fox will tree itself, in fact it is very rare. Maybe the fox got confused too!

The president, speaking from his Hyde Park home, asked the nation to join him in a prayer for "national unity"—the same national unity that had been Willkie's campaign slogan for weeks. Mr. Roosevelt read an old prayer asking God "to save us from violence, discord and confusion; from pride and arrogance and from every evil way." And lastly, he prayed:

"Defend our liberties and fashion into one united people, the multitude brought hither out of many kindreds and tongues."

Crusade For United Nation

Willkie closed his campaign by predicting his own election, after declaring the voters would choose between "a third term candidate and a new president." Confident of victory, he added:

"If I am elected, we will start this crusade together as a united nation—to return to the things that our god-fearing fathers held dearest: hard work, thrift, charity, honesty and above all, peace through strength."

There were thousands of orators on each side and in the final appeals, the third term issue was dominant. New dealers urged voters to disregard the third term upon the ground that Mr. Roosevelt's experience is necessary in the present world crisis.

Most Critical Moment

In the Willkie ranks, the orators struck greater dramatic notes. Typical of them was Bainbridge Colby, Woodrow Wilson's post-war secretary of state, who declared that the United States faced "the most critical moment of its history" because "the fate of our democracy hangs in the balance" on the third term issue.

At Democratic national headquarters, Chairman Edward Flynn raised his forecast to 453 electoral votes for Roosevelt, by adding Ohio's 26 to his previous list. He declined to go into details. The winner needs 266.

At Republican national headquarters, Chairman Joseph W. Martin predicted Willkie will get a minimum of 324 electoral votes. He specifically forecast Willkie victories in Massachusetts by 100,000, in New York by "over 200,000," in Pennsylvania by "at least 225,000," and in Ohio "by 300,000." He said New Jersey was "safely Republican" and that California was a "debatable state" despite heavy Democratic claims of victory.

Electing Congressmen-Senators

Aside from the presidency, the voters are electing a new house of representatives, filling 35 senate seats, naming 33 new governors and an army of lesser state and local officials. Outcome of the house contests may prove almost as momentous as the presidential election, since the Republicans expect to gain control of the chamber even if Mr. Roosevelt wins a third term.

With the G. O. P. in power in the House, the Republicans would have a tremendous check rein on the New Deal. Their hopes are based upon private surveys indicating a gain of from 60 to 75 seats over their present strength and they need to gain only 48 seats to win the House. Democratic leaders dispute these claims but private expressions from many Democratic members indicate considerable basis to the Republican forecast.

The Democrats, however, will retain control of the Senate, because of their enormous victories in the 1932, 1934 and 1936 elections. Of the 35 seats at stake, 25 are now held by Democrats, 8 by Republicans, 1 by a farmer-Laborite (Shipstead of Minnesota) who has turned Republican and 1 by LaFollette, the Wisconsin Progressive. The Republicans predict a gain of eight seats but even this would fail to give them control of the Senate, due to the great number of holdover Democrats.

Gubernatorial Contests

The gubernatorial contests have almost been lost in the heat of the presidential election. Of the 33 governorships at stake, fourteen are now held by Republicans and nineteen by Democrats, with six of the latter in the south. The Republicans are trying to retain G. O. P. governors in Colorado, Connecticut, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, New Hampshire, Ohio, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Vermont and Wisconsin. They have already won in Maine.

The Democrats hope to retain governors in Arizona, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, New Jersey, New Mexico, North Dakota, Utah, Washington and West Virginia, outside the south.

All these contests, important as they are, were completely overshadowed by Willkie's spectacular bid for the presidency. He battled right up to the last second, sending his hoarse voice out over the airways in the hours after midnight in one last plea for victory.

His campaign forced the president to abandon "inspection trips" and to conduct an eleventh-hour drive for votes. This change of the presidential plans in itself constituted a tribute to the efficacy of Willkie's campaign.

There are many important signs that the American people are rendering a sensational verdict. One is the gnawing fear among New Dealers that Willkie will win. This fear was reflected by the desperate efforts of New Dealers to turn the tide in the closing hours of the campaign. Another sign is the failure of many national polls to forecast a winner, due to a large percentage of "silent voters." Many experts believe these "silent voters," who ignored polls, are voting for Willkie.

Naval Reservist Is Freed In Case Of Poisoned Girl

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Nov. 5.—Although relieved of active duty, John Klanauskas, 20-year-old naval reservist, today was free of any charges in connection with the chloroform death last March of 18-year-old Charlotte Cranson.

A court martial found Klanauskas not guilty of manslaughter and assault several days ago. But the sailor was held in technical custody while the navy department considered charges of misconduct.

Capt. Richard T. Brodhead said he had been informed that Klanauskas was completely in the clear now.

"He is back in civilian life," Brodhead said, "and I have helped him get a job. He will start work in a day or two."

Miss Cranson died on the training ship Dubuque after an all night party at which Klanauskas, who was stationed on the ship, acted as host.

Reports Of Intense Activity In French West Indies Denied

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Secretary of State Hull told newspaper men today that reports of intense American naval and diplomatic activity in French West Indian Island of Martinique were overdrawn and probably based on misleading information.

He said that for some time conversations have been going on between Washington and Vichy and also between this government and provincial officials at Martinique about the status of that island but that no special American representatives had been sent there other than the consul and naval observer assigned Martinique several months ago.

Naval movements in the Caribbean, he added, were explained by the activities of the regular neutrality patrol and by the navy's training program.

Hull declined to reveal contents of the note of Marshal Petain delivered to the state department by the French ambassador yesterday, explaining that he had not obtained French permission to make it public. The message was in reply to one sent to Petain by President Roosevelt reportedly warning Vichy that this government and the other Pan American nations would oppose transfer of Martinique to Germany or any other power.

Captain Mitchell Explains Selective Service And Guard

In regard to selective service, as it affects the National Guard, Captain George F. Mitchell of local Battery F, states that the law provides that after a selective service man trains for one year he will be transferred to a reserve component of the land or naval forces for a period of ten years, during which time he will be subject to additional training. However, if he serves for two years with the active National Guard, he will be relieved from any other liability to serve in any reserve component for the ten-year period.

Any man who has served one year with the National Guard in active federal service, and thereafter, for at least two consecutive years in the active National Guard, either before or after, or partially before and partially after October 16, is relieved from liability to serve in any reserve component, and from liability for training. Any man who is in the National Guard on October 16, and who on that date "shall have satisfactorily served therein for at least six consecutive years, before or after or partially before and partially after" that date, is likewise relieved from liability for training, under this act.

ROOSEVELT IS RE-ELECTED

Willkie Carries Lawrence County In Tuesday Vote

County Returns To Republican Fold—Vote Is Very Close However

ROOSEVELT HAS CITY MAJORITY

Senator Guffey's Vote Is Much Below Total For Roosevelt In County

By the narrow margin of 563 votes, Lawrence County returned to the Republican fold on Tuesday, November 5, in the general election. It was by this scant margin that Wendell L. Willkie, Republican candidate for president carried the county at large but the City of New Castle went Democratic by 1,143 votes. In the county at large Mr. Willkie polled 19,400 votes and President Roosevelt 18,837.

Slight as the margin of victory in the county was it represents a substantial shift from the returns of 1936 when the county went Democratic by 6,536 votes, of which majority 4,500 was in the City of New Castle.

Other Majorities Larger

The difference between other state wide candidates in the election Tuesday was wider, Jay Cooke defeating Senator Joseph F. Guffey in this county by over 1,900 votes. The Democratic victory in the city car-

Governor Bricker Of Ohio Re-Elected

Burton Is Elected As U. S. Senator Despite Vote For Roosevelt

(International News Service)

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 6—Franklin D. Roosevelt today won his third smashing victory in Ohio as a presidential candidate, but failed to carry the state ticket with him as he did four years ago.

Latest returns indicated that re-election of Gov. John W. Bricker, a Republican, and the election of mayor Harold Burton of Cleveland, also a Republican as U. S. Senator.

In capturing the Buckeye state's 26 electoral votes from Wendell Willkie, the president fell far short of his 1936 plurality but his indicated majority of around 100,000 surpassed his margin of eight years ago.

Privately, government authorities were greatly pleased that President Roosevelt's policies regarding aid to Britain—policies known to Britain—apparently are to be continued without interruption.

London newspapers hailed the election result with undisguised jubilance.

Democrats Apparently Capture Lower House

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Nov. 6.—The Democratic party today apparently captured the state house of representatives, sweeping aside in the Roosevelt landslide the 50-seat majority the Republicans amassed in 1938. In the senate, however, the Republicans increased their lead.

On the basis of incomplete reports from all the 208 house districts in the state, the Democrats captured 33 additional seats. The Republicans one. If they retain the 79 seats they already hold the Democrats will have a few more than a majority in the 1941 legislature, which convenes next January.

In the senate the Democratic trend was reversed, the G. O. P. increasing its 26 to 24 lead of the present legislature by at least five seats, with returns not completed from all senatorial districts. The Democrats picked up one seat.

Problem For Governor

Thus, if later returns show no substantial upsets, the Democrats will have obtained control of the lower house for the third time in 84 years and posed for Republican

Guffey Rides To Victory With Roosevelt's Heavy Majority

NEARLY 4,000,000 VOTES ARE RECORDED

By EVERETT GERRY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 6. — With Pennsylvania's massive bloc of 36 electoral votes in his grasp, President Roosevelt today pushed his Keystone state majority over Wendell L. Willkie toward the 300,000 vote mark.

Riding to third-term victory with him on a near-record vote were U. S. Senator Joseph F. Guffey and two Democratic seekers after state fiscal offices. Guffey, veteran New Dealer, was re-elected over the opposition of Jay Cooke, Philadelphia Republican leader.

Unofficial returns from 7,420 of the state's 8,106 precincts gave:

Roosevelt, 2,018,373.
Willkie, 1,743,611.

Late reporting rural counties, turning in a heavier Willkie vote, trimmed the President's plurality by 4,000 votes, reducing it to 274,762.

Guffey's Plurality

Guffey's plurality over Cooke was expected to exceed 200,000. Returns from fewer than one-eighth of the total number of precincts were missing at 6 a. m., and the unofficial vote counted at that hour totaled 3,586,572.

President Roosevelt rolled up a majority of 175,000 votes in Philadelphia, nearly duplicating his showing there four years ago against Alf Landon.

His plurality over Willkie in Allegheny County threatened to top 100,000, falling far short of the 192,000 majority amassed here in the 1936 election.

Republican strength, demonstrated in the "house-cleaning" of the 1938 gubernatorial election, was impotent in the face of the President's successful drive for re-election.

The President rolled up impressive vote totals in Wilkes-Barre and Scranton and in other industrial centers but the rousing majorities given him in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh made victory certain.

In the race for fiscal offices, G. Harold Wagner and F. Clair Ross, Democrats, defeated James F. Malone, Jr., and Fred T. Gelder, Republicans, for auditor-general and state treasurer, respectively.

Neither victor was extended, Ross maintaining a better than 200,000 vote lead over Gelder, president pro tem of the state senate from Susquehanna County, and Wagner going far ahead of his Republican opponent.

Italy Was Not Surprised F.D.R. Won Re-Election

(International News Service)

ROME, Nov. 6. — Re-election of President Roosevelt for a third term caused no surprise among Italian authorities today, and official Fascist quarters saw no reason for changing this country's attitude toward the United States.

An official summary of Italy's reaction to the American presidential election stated:

"The results are no surprise and were entirely foreshadowed by all competent Italian circles.

"Since nothing seems to have been changed in America, there is no reason for a change in Italy's attitude toward a judgment of American affairs."

Willkie Sends Congratulations To President

Message Is Sent During Morning After Election Is Conceded

URGES UNITY OF ALL AMERICANS

By WALTER KIERNAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Wendell Willkie admitted defeat today. Satisfied that nothing could now change the preponderant vote against him, the Republican presidential candidate conceded the election of President Roosevelt in a statement which he delivered to reporters at 10:30 a. m.

The Republican candidate's concession was in the form of a telegram which he sent to President Roosevelt. It read:

"Congratulations on your re-election as president of the United States. I know that we are both gratified that so many American citizens participated in the election. I wish you all personal health and happiness. Cordially, "Wendell L. Willkie."

While conceding that he had lost in his spectacular bid for the presidency, Willkie expressed satisfaction today that the race had been close in many states, that he had apparently carried several states where he supposedly was weak and that—most of all—he had stirred up interest in the principles which he advocated.

Willkie had retired early today without conceding defeat. He slept soundly, rose shortly before nine o'clock, breakfasted and then dictated the telegram which was released to the press simultaneously with its dispatch to President Roosevelt.

McQuiddy Is Elected To State Senate

Fullerton Carries Lawrence County But McQuiddy Wins By Beaver County Vote

J. K. McQuiddy of New Castle, a Democrat, will represent the 47th senatorial district in the Pennsylvania State Senate in the sessions of 1941 and 1943. In the election of Tuesday, Nov. 5th, Mr. McQuiddy defeated his Republican opponent, W. Sharp Fullerton, by a vote of 48,534 to 44,161 in 209 out of the 210 precincts in the district. McQuiddy's majority, with one precinct missing, is 4,373.

Lawrence county, the home county of each of the candidates, returned the following result in the 100 precincts here:

J. K. McQuiddy, 17,418.
W. Sharp Fullerton, 19,442.

Beaver county, 109 of 110 precincts:

J. K. McQuiddy, 31,116; W. Sharp Fullerton, 24,719.

Mr. Fullerton has been the assemblyman from the second district of Lawrence county for the past two years. His home is in North Beaver township, and the rural districts of this county gave him a magnificent vote. In the industrial districts of New Castle he trailed badly.

Mr. McQuiddy is a resident of New Castle and is an electrician by trade. This was his first venture into politics as a candidate.

Greeks Closing In On Koritza Strategic City

Athens Expects To Hear Albanian Base Has Fallen To Greek Forces

BRITISH PLANES JOIN IN BOMBING

By A. E. ANGELOPOULOS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ATHENS, Nov. 6.—With rifles, hand grenades and bayonets, Greek shock troops closed in today on the Albanian City of Koritza in a fierce drive to capture the major Italian military base north of the Greco-Albanian border.

Authorities in Athens said they expected news momentarily that Koritza had fallen.

The Greeks struck at Koritza in a concentric attack aimed at 30,000 Italian troops trapped by a sudden Grecian encircling maneuver.

Planes Help Out

An official Greek communique, describing the Hellenic advances in Albania, also charged that Italian planes were responsible for yesterday's two air raids on the Yugoslavian frontier city of Bitolj (Monastir). It said:

"Greek troops captured a new series of fortified heights with semi-permanent defenses on the western Macedonian front.

"Section of retreating Italians were attacked by their own tanks.

"Greek planes successfully bombed the airdromes at Koritza and Argyrocastro, destroying a number of planes on the ground. Two Italian bombers were shot down yesterday and no Greek planes were lost.

"Italian planes twice bombed Monastir yesterday."

Koritza Bombed

At the same time, an official Greek announcement said 290 persons have been killed and 680 wounded by Italian air raids since the Greco-Italian hostilities began. King George II visited outlying sections of Athens which were bombed yesterday morning.

Jones And Weingartner Are Elected

Named To Represent City And County In State Legislature

Presley N. Jones, a Democrat and George T. Weingartner a Republican, will represent the County of Lawrence in the 1941 session of the General Assembly, the returns of Tuesday's election show. Mr. Jones will represent the City of New Castle, succeeding Carmi G. Preston who did not stand for renomination to the House this year, and Mr. Weingartner will succeed W. Sharp Fullerton, who was a candidate for the State Senate.

Mr. Jones defeated his Republican opponent Oliver J. Shannon by a vote of 10,030 to 9383. Jones' vote was the highest vote on the Democratic ticket in the city. Shannon led him in the upper parts of the city but the back breaking Democratic votes in the southern wards of the city assured Jones' victory.

Mr. Jones is a salesman by occupation and resides with his wife and daughter at 419 Norwood avenue. He has been active in the past few years in the Junior Chamber of Commerce and other civic ventures.

Democrats Gain Two House Seats

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 6.—Although the Democrats gained two seats in the U. S. House of Representatives, the political makeup of Pennsylvania's congressional delegation today was still undecided on the basis of incomplete returns from the state's 34 districts.

Present house lineup is 19 Republicans and 15 Democrats. New members will be seated at the next session, which convenes January 3.

Little Change In Majorities For Congress

Democratic Majorities Over Republicans Will Approximate Present Levels

NEW DEALERS ARE IN JUBILANT MOOD

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The nation gave President Roosevelt another overwhelmingly Democratic congress in Tuesday's election but also provided a sizeable minority voice, a compilation of returns showed today.

The Democratic majority over Republicans approximated present levels of 91 in the house and 45 in the senate.

While final returns may either show slight gains or losses for the new deal administration in the bitter congressional battle, the extent of the victory admittedly shocked Republican campaign managers.

Foes of the administration saw one ray of hope in their study of congressional returns.

The possibility that a coalition of Republicans and dissident Democrats may rise to check the new deal in the 77th congress, as in the past, still existed. Jubilant new dealers, however, insisted that the victory of Mr. Roosevelt in a third term campaign is so pronounced that congress will not dare oppose his proposed extension of the new deal.

Congressional Standings

The congressional standings early today were:

Senate—Democrats, 61; Republicans, 18; Independent, one; undecided, 16.

House—Democrat, 206; Republicans, 107; American Labor, one; undecided, 121.

The senatorial contests disclosed curious reactions among voters. Sen. David I. Walsh (D) Mass., supporter of much new deal legislation but often a severe critic of the administration's foreign policy, won easily.

Taylor Township Board Is First To Make Report

First Of North Beaver Township Is First To Make Complete Report

Taylor township's election board jumped into the spotlight as the first board to make a return to The News Tuesday night when it made a partial report of its returns at 8:32 p. m. In so doing this board took the honors away from the Seventh ward, where the second and third precincts have divided honors for years in this respect.

The first board to make a complete return was the first precinct of North Beaver township which came through with all offices tabulated at 9:06. This was an unusual piece of ballot counting for this is a large precinct.

The News appreciates the fine cooperation of the boards of the county in keeping this newspaper informed of its progress as the election progressed. In this way it was possible for The News to get the report to the people promptly.

Crashes Third Term Precedent

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT

Face Difficult Days Is Roosevelt Warning

By GEORGE DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 6—Franklin D. Roosevelt, swept into an unprecedented third term by another seeming electoral landslide, assured the American public early today that new deal policies of the last eight years would be pressed for the coming four.

Shortly before his Republican opponent Wendell Willkie went to bed refusing to concede the election, the president told a howling torch-light parade of his Dutchess county supporters that he intended to carry on for a third, and promised final term in the White House.

"I don't need to tell you that we face difficult days in this country but I think you will find me in the future just exactly the same Franklin Roosevelt that you have known for a great many years," the chief executive, surrounded by his family, declared.

To Remain At Peace

Although he remained up until 2:35 a. m. tabulating the returns that showed the country had given him his requested vote of confidence, the president announced that at noon today he would dedicate the new post office in his home village of Hyde Park. What he may say at this homely scene probably will give a further indication of campaign promises to keep the nation at peace by speedy rearmament.

No announcement was made before the president finally retired but it was expected he would head back to Washington almost immediately. Consistently throughout the campaign he insisted that dangerous trends in the European war made it inadvisable for him to be away

Graham Wins Re-election To Congress Seat

Lawrence And Butler Counties Give Him Lead In District

Congressman Louis E. Graham, Republican incumbent for the 26th district was returned to his congressional seat on Tuesday when he defeated Peter P. Reising of Beaver county by approximately 3270 votes. The total vote for the 26th district, Beaver, Lawrence and Butler counties in 293 of the 295 districts was Graham 65,025, Reising 61,755. The two missing precincts will change the total but not the results.

The vote for Congress follows:

Lawrence County Complete

Louis E. Graham 19,649.
Peter P. Reising 17,598.

Beaver County

109 of 110 precincts.
Louis E. Graham 25,908.
Peter P. Reising 31,395.

Butler County

84 of 85 precincts
Louis E. Graham 19,468.
Peter P. Reising 12,762.

Mr. Graham's victory was assured by the vote in Butler county. His own county of Beaver gave his opponent a lead of 5487 votes. Lawrence county's lead for Graham 2051 was not sufficient to overcome Reising but Butler swept through with a lead of 6706 for Graham with one precinct missing.

This will be Mr. Graham's second term in congress

President Wins Third Term And Breaks Tradition

Certain To Have 437 Electoral Votes And Maybe More Is Latest Report

SEVERAL STATES STILL DOUBTFUL

Seven States Are Certain For Willkie—May Win Few In Addition

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—President Roosevelt today was swept into the White House for a precedent-shattering third successive term on the crest of a tidal wave of ballots that swamped the vigorous effort made by Wendell Willkie to oust the new deal from office.

By mid-morning, late returns had given the president such a resounding vote of confidence that the Republican nominee, after hours of apparent disbelief, conceded he had been vanquished and dispatched a telegram of congratulations to Mr. Roosevelt.

Meanwhile, as states considered doubtful overnight swung into line, the Roosevelt victory became hourly more impressive. The president definitely had taken 37 states with a total electoral vote of 437, wrested an early lead in New Jersey, Michigan and Indiana from Willkie, although Michigan's political pendulum swung Republican immediately thereafter, and was bidding tenaciously for North Dakota and Wisconsin where Willkie's lead still held. Should the latter four states swing definitely to the president, he would have a total electoral vote of 486, far beyond private pre-election convictions of the most partisan Democrat.

Seven Willkie States

Actually, Willkie was assured the definite support of only seven states. These, with a total of 45 electoral votes, were rock-ribbed Maine and Vermont, Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska and South Dakota.

The president won magnificently

The second guessers meet today, the post election wizard guys. "I told you so" upon their lips, a fevered glint gleams from their eyes. They knew just what the score would be, that is they tell you now that fact, but just between us I would say those lads are just a little cracked. They never come right out and say just what they think the day election comes or give a hint of what they think will be the score, but laying back until it's in, they then get chipper, bright and gay, the second guessers weary me, the weather's forty-one today.

Willkie Holds Hope To The Last

Tells Friends To Keep Up Courage

Not Disheartened, He Says As He Retires Without Conceding Defeat

PRINCIPLES WILL SURELY PREVAIL

By WALTER KIERNAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—While tabulating machines clicked up their apparently endless totals for President Roosevelt early today, Wendell Willkie slept soundly, having gone to bed without conceding his defeat and obviously hoping that somehow, someway, a break would come.

Before retiring, he announced that he would have a statement at 10 a. m.

The Republican presidential candidate seemed unable to comprehend defeat for he has tasted it few times in his life.

Well after midnight when the trend appeared established, when it appeared that concession on Willkie's part was inevitable there was a flurry when Willkie entered the ballroom of the Hotel Commodore, where a number of his supporters had gathered to receive the election returns.

Great Crusade

Enthusiastically they cheered and chanted "We Want Willkie — We Want Willkie!" But there was a sudden silence when the candidate held up his arms for silence. The crowd sensed that this was the moment not of the victory they had come to celebrate but of defeat.

And then Willkie smiled—a weary smile but a smile.

"I hope none of you are disheartened," he said. "I am not in the least.

"I never felt better in my life. I want to congratulate you on your part in the greatest crusade in history. The principles for which we have fought will prevail as surely as truth will always prevail.

"Don't be afraid and never quit."

There were many who had tears in their eyes as they applauded, tears for a man who could stand against a tide slowly engulfing him and say "don't be afraid and never quit."

Some men gain stature by saying "I concede." Willkie seemed to grow in that moment when he refused to acknowledge the defeat plain on the huge blackboard behind him. Shoulders straightened, heads went up as though his supporters took courage from the man who would not quit.

They knew, as he must have known, that it was all over, yet something of his own bulldog tenacity and strength passed over to them. They wondered, as he wondered, why, how, where he had failed to put his message over.

Willkie never considered himself a political candidate except for the purpose of the record. He thought of himself and his supporters thought of him as the leader of a cause, a great crusade.

Let's hope that history repeats. By defeating untrained races Rome finally taught them how to lick her.

In a neighboring state, Sen. Peter G. Gerry, frequently in opposition to the new deal, won.

Sen. Joseph Guffey (R) Penna., ardent new dealer triumphed, while Sen. Sherman Minton (D) Indiana, new deal senate whip, was running a neck and neck race. California overwhelmingly endorsed Mr. Roosevelt but reelected Sen. Hiram Johnson, one of his bitterest critics.

Rayburn And Martin Renamed

Both Speaker Sam Rayburn of the house and Rep. Joseph Martin, Republican leader, were reelected. New dealers who were ousted two years ago staged "come-backs" in several districts, but Mr. Roosevelt's fight to beat Rep. Hamilton Fish, who represents his New York district, failed. Fish's usually big majority, however, was sliced from 30,000 to 8,000.

The Democrats elected to the senate Ernest W. MacFarland, New Mexico; Francis T. Maloney, Connecticut; Harry S. Truman, Missouri; Burton K. Wheeler, Montana; James M. Mead, New York; Abe Murdock, Utah; Harley M. Kilgore, West Virginia and several senators in the south, including anti-new dealer Harry S. Byrd of Virginia.

Republican Hopes

Republicans hoped the final count would bring victory to C. Wayland Brooks, Illinois; Sen. Arthur Vandenberg, Michigan; Ray Willis, Indiana; Hugh A. Butler, Nebraska; Harold H. Burton, Ohio, and Fred H. Clausen, Wisconsin.

After leading for many hours in count of ballots in Wisconsin, Clausen fell behind Sen. Robert M. LaFollette, who appeared to be on the way to another term as progressive.

Sen. Warren Barbour (R) New Jersey was running far ahead of James H. R. Cromwell, husband of Doris Duke Cromwell, and appeared certain of election.

Democrats had definitely ousted 10 sitting Republican congressmen. They captured the entire Connecticut delegation of six, a gain of four, and took Rhode Island's two congressmen.

They gained one and lost one in New York, and picked up Republican seats in Ohio, Indiana and Pennsylvania. Republican candidates appeared to have ousted Democrats in Colorado, California, Illinois, Missouri and Oklahoma.

Interspersed with the election returns that established him as one of the outstanding figures in American political history, Mr. Roosevelt kept in touch with Secretary of State Hull on developments abroad.

The new deal policies that he intends to push were proclaimed by the president in his last-minute campaign speeches in New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Dayton, Cleveland and other points east of Ohio.

DEMOCRATS SEEM TO HAVE LOWER HOUSE

Governor Arthur H. James a difficult problem for the remaining two years of his administration.

The greatest Democratic house gain was in Philadelphia, where 11 seats were picked up. Other gains were: Allegheny 2, Adams 1, Clarion 1, Columbia 1, Cumberland 1, Delaware 1, Lehigh 2, Luzerne 2, Northampton 3, Northumberland 1, York 2.

Speaker of the house, Ellwood J. Turner, Delaware, was returned to the house, but with the chamber in Democratic hands he will be supplanted, perhaps by Rep. Leo A. Achterman, Stroudsburg, acting Democratic floor leader, who was also re-elected.

Republican gains in the senate were garnered in the 15th, 29th, 33rd, 41st and 49th districts.

Sen. C. Hale Sipe, Democrat, of the Butler-Armstrong district, was defeated by Jacob W. Carr, (R), Butler. Minority leader Harry Shapiro, Philadelphia, was re-elected, as were Anthony J. WILLKIE CARRIES LAWRENCE COUNTY IN TUESDAY VOTE

ried the Democratic nominee for General Assembly into office and aided in electing the Democratic candidate for the state senate.

The tabulation of the county vote follows:

For President:

Wendell L. Willkie (R), 19,400.
Franklin D. Roosevelt (D), 18,837.

For United States Senate:

Jay Cooke (R), 19,427.
Joseph F. Guffey (D), 17,481.

For Congress:

Louis E. Graham (R), 19,649.
Peter P. Reising (D), 17,598.

For State Treasurer:

James F. Malone, Jr. (R), 19,123.
G. Harold Wagner (D), 17,681.

For Auditor-General:

Frederick T. Gelder (R), 18,711.
F. Clair Ross (D), 17,986.

In the City of New Castle President Roosevelt got a vote of 10,490 to Willkie's 9,347, but Senator Guffey barely got through with a vote of 9,673 to 9,529. Congressman Louis E. Graham polled the highest Republican vote in New Castle, getting 9,652 votes to Peter P. Reising's 9,683, a difference of but 31 votes.

The complete tabulation of the entire 100 precincts in Lawrence County will be seen in other columns of today's News.

but Willkie captured a tremendous protest vote against the administration. In addition, the president ran far ahead of local tickets in many states, in which the Republicans elected governors and United States senators. On the, whole, the American people apparently placed their faith in the president's pledges to keep the nation out of war, to achieve unity in the nation and to solve domestic problems.

Incomplete returns indicated the president would have a plurality of less than 6,000,000 votes compared to his 10,000,000 plurality in 1936. With more than half the vote counted, the total tabulations at 5 a. m. (EST) were:

Roosevelt: 17,359,816
Willkie: 14,112,695.

Willkie, running behind from the first tabulation in New England to the last on the Pacific coast, went to bed without congratulating Mr. Roosevelt and without conceding defeat. Taking a cue from him, other Republican chieftains failed to concede him victory.

McNary Sends Congratulations

A single exception was Senator Charles L. McNary, GOP vice presidential nominee and Republican leader of the senate. Ignoring his leader's silence, McNary congratulated both the president and the new vice-president-elect, Henry A. Wallace, of Iowa. McNary telegraphed both congratulations but told the country that the Republicans would maintain in congress a "worthy and vigilent opposition." He added that the great race ran by Willkie this year ensured the Republicans victory in 1944.

The Republican nominee ran far ahead of his party's 1936 nominee, Alf M. Landon, but the president too ran ahead of his 1936 showing. The balloting was the greatest in all American history and Mr. Roosevelt won more than 55 per cent of the total vote.

Willkie proved belligerent to the end. His last words to faithful admirers, before he went to bed, were:

"Don't be afraid. Never quit."

The president meanwhile swept a Democratic congress along into power. His tremendous pluralities in the industrial east helped Democrats to capture seats in the house. He made it certain that he will have a friendly house and senate at least for the next two years.

President Didn't Carry State Candidates

In many states, however, the president ran far ahead of his ticket. In some, the Republicans either retained or captured governorships and senatorships although he won the electoral vote.

Willkie ran best in rural areas and the farm belt of the midwest. Two exceptions were New Jersey and Michigan, in which Willkie ran ahead of Roosevelt throughout the night. There were possibilities however that the president would finally carry New Jersey despite Willkie's early lead.

The president's victory was complete, although it did not match his success in 1936 when he carried 46 out of 48 states. This time, he swept the east, the south, the border states, the mountain states and the west coast. He lost in the middle west and ran benind on early returns from New Jersey and Michigan.

Willkie won Maine, Vermont, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, South Dakota and apparently Colorado. He was ahead until early today in New Jersey and Michigan. The president carried the rest, although his pluralities were slim in Indiana, North Dakota, Idaho, Wyoming and Oregon. By the time the final tabulations are complete, he may lose some of these states but the outcome will not materially affect his sensational victory.

The president is the first American ever to seek the presidency for a third successive term. He is the first American ever given that munificent honor by the American people. He has shattered a tradition established by George Washington and affirmed by Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, Abraham Lincoln and Woodrow Wilson. He has won a third term and he has promised the American people to serve them, God willing, throughout its four more years.

ARMISTICE DAY

INDICATIVE of a resurgence of barbarism, twenty-two years after the Armistice most of the world is approximately back at the spot it left so hopefully. World involvement is not yet on the scale of 1918, but mechanized destruction is so much more effective that the effect is nearly the same.

Why has the world fallen victim to aggressors so soon after realizing the futility of conflict? Why is the sacrificing heart of humankind so speedily outraged by the call for more sacrifices?

The answer probably is that no one in the aggressor countries, either the common mass of the people or leaders who are distilled out of the common mass, knows how to cope with this mechanized era. Leaders claim to know and trusting people follow them right up to the brink of discovery that the leaders are only groping.

Then the rulers, with absolute power, seeking an evasion of their ignorance, scramble for a way out. Commonly they are adopting conquest as the way. It is not an answer. It is the antithesis of a solution. But the self-important leaders do not hesitate to grasp it regardless of consequences.

When it will end, how great will be the cost in human life and property damage, are still in the lap of the future. The parts of the world that are still free will require strong hearts and high faith to finally conquer the forces of darkness.

OUR ARMY SMALLER THAN PAYROLL

While public opinion in the United States is virtually unanimous in support of arming the Nation for defense against any possible aggression, many serious-minded persons doubtlessly have given some thought to the fact the program will be immensely costly, although they favor necessary rearmament regardless of the cost.

The manufacturing of planes, tanks, naval vessels, cannon and firearms in itself will require a vast expenditure, and in addition the costs of training millions of men for a year each and of supporting an enlarged regular army will be immense.

The armed forces of the Nation, although insufficient for defense needs, already number hundreds of thousands of men, and in that connection it is interesting to look at the monthly payroll of the Federal Government.

The monthly payroll now has passed $200,000,000, the U. S. Chamber of Commerce reports. This is the regular roll, at least 75 per cent of which goes to employes in the executive branch outside of the armed forces.

The payroll of the armed forces of the Nation amounts to something less than 20 per cent of the total monthly pay issue of the Federal Government, the Chamber reports.

That report makes it obvious that, while the taxpayers are supporting a substantial armed force, it is a minor organization alongside the other army of Federal payrollers.

HUSKING CORN—A MAN'S JOB

Another corn husking record has been set and the prize winner keeps the trophy for Iowa. At the annual contest in Davenport, Irving Bauman, a 27-year-old farmer, stripped the husks from 46.71 bushels of the fodder in 88 minutes. He beat the record of 42.5 bushels set by Elmer Carlson of Audubon, Iowa, in 1935.

Something of the romance and poetry of the ancient craft has gone with the speed attained. It is the passing of the finer side of corn husking, with its friendly atmosphere, and the occasional appearance of a red ear that is deplored. In the old days neighbors assembled in a farmer's barn wherein were piled, between mows of hay, great stacks of corn stalks. There were empty bins waiting to receive the husked ears.

The rattle and swish of the dried husks and the thud of ears landing in the bins formed a rhythmic accompaniment to the laughter, the talk, the stories; and the squeals of maidens as some swain, claiming the privilege conferred by finding a red ear of corn, performed the kissing rite.

When the husking was over—and one may be sure no 40-bushel record was made—there followed a bountiful meal, with apples, cider and popcorn for dessert. The bins were filled, some kisses had been given and taken, there was, more often than not, impromptu dancing, no prizes were awarded, but a good time was had by all.

Some day, alas, a corn husking machine will be invented.

OUT IN THE OPEN

Engrossed with landslides, returns from missing precincts and the return of missing candidates, the fact had escaped many persons temporarily that there is more to November than Election Day. There is a tang in the air that proves all wine is not bottled. Wood fires, the aroma of burning leaves, pumpkin pie, apple cider, seats on the fifty-yard line, Thanksgiving and an increase in the turkey crop are among its assets. It is the part of wisdom to make the most of the outdoors while one may, for November is a stimulating month as all who inhale its fair know.

It is a month that brings into circulation a hardy breed whose distinguishing characteristics are brown jackets, laced boots, red caps and a glint in the eye that belongs to none except the hunter.

But one does not have to be a hunter to enjoy November, a fact also known to those discriminating sportsmen, the hikers. They carry no guns and their only interest in rabbits, quail and pheasants is to see that they have fun, too. To them the woods offer solitude and security after crowded streets and arterial highways where they are hooted at by automobile horns, drivers and traffic cops.

And it is in behalf of the hiker in the woods and fields that there is offered to the hunters and to them, too, a bit of special pleading. Although there is no desire to dilate on the perils of hunting, hunters have been known to shoot other things than deer and rabbits, notably other hunters. So it is worse than foolish to blast away at every motion of the brush, at every twig that snaps. It might be a rabbit, but then again it might be a couple of other fellows.

There is a lot of talk about the Burma Road but we still insist that it would make better lyrical newspaper copy if they would argue about the Road to Mandalay.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

GIVE YOUTH CONFIDENCE TO TALK UP

Boys and girls entering the teens are hampered with fears as they never were before or will be again in later years, perhaps. It is in the classroom around the seventh, eighth and ninth grades (junior high school) where this fear is most destructive, as a rule. Not a few of the same youths, of course, suffer from very severe self-consciousness when they attempt to speak before their classmates in the tenth, eleventh and twelfth grades, even in college.

Some teachers, too, are very uncomfortable, while in a teachers meeting or institute. I have discovered that when I conduct a forum with school teachers they, as a rule, are more timid about "talking up" than are junior or senior high school students. By the way, I visited in a class at a state teachers college recently and observed that practically every student in that class taught by the president of the college, participated in the discussion in an atmosphere which approached that of a comfortable fireside group. It was wonderful, about the best classroom atmosphere I have ever felt or observed.

Parents Suffer, Too

This same fear which haunts youth also hampers fathers and mothers in a meeting where free discussion from the floor is invited.

Often teachers will argue with me that a student will have no fears about talking if he is well prepared, that only the lazy students suffer from self-consciousness. The other day I asked a group of 700 junior high school girls if they often felt uncomfortable as they talked in class. Every hand went up as if a spring had been released. Certainly not nearly all of them were lazy students. I have had similar response from scores of other youth groups.

From among a junior high assembly the other day, there came forth within thirty minutes, the following statements from as many individuals, each of whom rose and spoke from where he or she sat:

Stage Fright

"Your heart begins to beat very fast." "Your knees get weak." "Your knees shake." "You get out of breath." "Your voice quivers." "Your mouth and throat get dry." "You get a strange feeling in the bottom of your stomach." "Your face and neck burn." "You forget what you meant to say." "You wonder if some one will laugh if you make a mistake."

I believe the learning efficiency in the average classroom of teen age youth could be doubled if teachers cultivated an atmosphere of comfortableness—of good mental health—in the classroom, so the student could keep his mind on what he wished to say rather than on fears of being ridiculed.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. What do you think of the custom among many mothers of paring off children under ten or twelve, at parties?

A. I think it absurd.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

FREE TRADE AMONG STATES

Col. Joseph F. Quinn, district manager of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, stated something which every American should consider carefully when he said:

"These United States are not united economically and we must be strong as a nation to hold our own in the economic struggle that must come internationally after the present war. We can no longer afford internal weakness and inefficiency."

The old carefree days, when states could blithly cut one another's economic throats by way of legislative trade barriers, are gone. Petty selfish embargoes thinly disguised under regulations called "guarantines," "licensing provisions," or other subterfuges already have alarmingly hindered the flow of free trade among the states.

There are now fifteen hundred different laws on the statute books of the forty-eight states which act as interstate trade barriers. Fortunately, through the activity of the Council of State Governments and several far-seeing governors, there has been no increase in the trend in recent months.

But merely to stop the placing of additional trade barrier laws on the statute books is not enough. For the sake of adding to the internal strength of this nation in whatever crisis it may face a steady campaign to remove the existing laws which are dictated purely in the selfish interests of local pressure groups should be maintained.

NEW YORK—The candidates and their wives plead for national unity after the election votes are counted:

President Roosevelt—"After the ballots are counted, the United States of America will still be united."

Wendell Willkie—"There is no place for bitterness or hate in America."

Mrs. Edith Willkie—"We need a united nation and we must forget differences when the next president is elected."

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt—"We are going to have to forget political fights in the fight we are going to put up for our country."

A judge tells about an incident he once heard in court while acting as a lawyer in a case.

Counsel for the plaintiff obviously was dissatisfied with the court's ruling, and finally arose with glowering mien.

"Your honor," he addressed the judge. "Would it be contempt of court if I said I felt the court has presided over this case in a manner that disregarded all legal niceties and in such a fashion as to be an absolute disgrace to the bench?"

"It certainly would," said the judge, "and I would be obliged to commit you to jail at once."

"Very well, Your Honor," replied the attorney. "I shall not speak my mind then."

"Won't you come to the aid of us stenographers, and give a calldown to the employer who dilly-dallies during most of the day and doesn't start his dictation until the late afternoon and keeps us an hour overtime (without extra compensation) nearly every evening? I rarely get home before 7 o'clock despite the fact that my hours are supposed to be from 9 till 5."

Answer: Of course, there are times when it is necessary for a secretary, particularly one employed by an important executive to remain overtime. Some secretaries are so responsible and so highly paid as to be almost, if not actually, executives. Employees with such a status would not wish to make an issue of overtime.

There, undoubtedly, is a considerable proportion of employers of the class whose "hangovers" from late nocturnal hours render them inefficient throughout the forenoon and who, thereafter prolong their lunch hour so far that they do not actually get down to concentrated desk work until about six hours after it should have commenced.

Readers' Questions Answered

Question: If finger bowls are to be used, where should they be placed.—Alice.

Answer: At formal dinners, finger bowls are brought in after the dessert plates have been removed. At informal dinners and luncheons, they may be brought in on the dessert plates, with a small doily between the bowl and the plate. The dessert silver also is brought in on this plate, the spoon on the right, and the fork on the left.

The guest should lift the silver from the plate, placing it upon the table, the spoon on the right and the fork on the left of the plate. The finger bowl with the doily should then be removed from the plate and placed, to the left on the table leaving the plate ready for the dessert.

Question: Would it be proper for me to have my father as my best man at my wedding? If so, who should accompany my mother to the church.—Eddy.

Answer: Indeed, yes, you may have your father act as your best man. This is frequently done. In this event, your brother should accompany your mother to the church. If you have no brother, your mother's nearest male relative should then perform this function.

THE DOLLAR AND THE CENT

A big silver dollar and a little brown cent
Rolling along together they went.
Rolling along the smooth sidewalk.
When the dollar remarked—for the dollars talk:
"You poor little cent. You cheap little mite!
I'm brighter than you, more than twice as bright;
I'm worth more than you a hundred fold.
And written on me in letters bold
Is the motto, drawn from the pious creed—
'In God We Trust'—which all can read."
"Yes, I know," said the cent, "I'm a cheap little mite;
I know I'm not big, nor good, nor bright."
"But," said the cent, with a meek little sigh,
"You don't go to church as often as I."

CHANGED MIND

Here is one I heard that I like: A minister advertised for a man servant. The next morning a nicely dressed young man rang the bell.

"Can you start the fire and get breakfast by 7 o'clock?" asked the minister.

"I guess so," answered the young man.

"Well, can you polish all the silver, wash the dishes, keep the house neat and tidy?"

"Say, parson," said the young fellow, "I came here to see about getting married—but if it's going to be as much work as all that, count me out now."

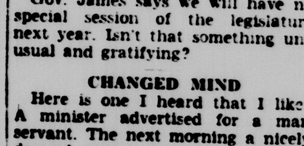

It's only after a house has been built that the owner of it can see where the mistakes have been made. Some feel like tearing the house down and building it over again.

In England they will not celebrate Armistice Day this year. We hope they will be able to celebrate next year.

"So you got tangled up with that Biffkins girl, eh?" asked the young man's father. "I thought you'd be able to see through her at first glance."

"But the lights in her parlor are very dim, apologized the youth.

Philippines Can Be Defended
Gain In Long Run Is Doubtful
Have Been Held Doubtful Asset

By CHARLES P. STEWART
(Central Press Columnist)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Asked whether or not we can defend the Philippines, Navy Secretary Knox's answer was, "We can defend anything."

Of course, the secretary's questioner meant, "Can we defend the islands against Japan?" From chats I've had with a great many naval officers in our service, I conclude that generally they agree with Frank Knox—we can do it. They concur, however, that it must be a terrible chore and an enormously expensive one.

Naturally it will be a job for our sea fighters to attend to. To get to the archipelago's vicinity they'll have to cross two or three thou and miles of ocean, even from Hawaii, to say nothing of our western mainland. To be sure, Secretary Knox promises us more bases for our warships on the other side of the Pacific—Singapore, for instance. But these prospective bases are as far away as the Philippines are. There's all that salt water to negotiate, no matter how many bases we have. Japan, on the opposite hand, has a formidable base at the southern end of Formosa, a scant over-night's steaming from a northern Filipino landing.

Obviously the clash, if one occurs, will be mapped especially for the Japs' convenience and about as inconveniently as possible from Uncle Sam's standpoint.

What Can We Gain?

And if, again, the rumpus does eventuate, and if we win, as forecast by Secretary Knox, with our navy men's indorsement, what'll we gain by it?

It's been emphasized again and again that the Philippines never have been an asset to us; only an expense and a liability. Moreover, they're to have their independence shortly. Nevertheless, comments Secretary Knox, so long as they're under our flag we'll defend 'em. I don't think anybody'll dispute the propriety of that utterance. Even though we may not want 'em, it would be an intolerable affront to have 'em taken away from us forcibly.

And even after they become, with our blessing, independent? Even then we probably shan't like to see Japan grabbing 'em immediately. Our sense of responsibility may wear off in the course of time, but only, in all likelihood, after a considerable interval.

The fact is, as our state and navy departmental functionaries currently remark quite frequently, we certainly stuck our neck out in a most injudicious fashion when we took those islands over from Spain following Admiral Dewey's Manila Bay victory—a victory that wished a highly undesirable overseas possession onto our hands, as repeatedly has been demonstrated since then.

Over and over I've heard competent commentators in Washington blame Rudyard Kipling for that error, as they describe it.

Rudyard, at the juncture referred to, was at the flood tide of his stories relative to the activities of the English in India. They caught the American fancy. We wanted to be a far-flung empire also, with dependencies to send our "younger sons" to. The Philippines offered precisely such an opportunity, we reckoned. We grabbed at the chance, accordingly. Now we're having our troubles to unload it.

Defend Themselves?

The suggestion's made that maybe the Filipinos can defend themselves against the Japs.

SAVAGE

He was a cruel savage: to school
he'd never been.
The altar in a house of God his eyes had never seen.
He'd never asked for mercy and no mercy had he shown.
But when he went to battle he let women folk alone.

His savagery was fearful and blood curdling was his cry.
His war whoop and his war dance were designed to terrify.
He was ignorant of culture and he sometimes ate the dead.
But the thought of killing babies never came into his head.

To make himself more savage he stuck feathers in his hair.
He daubed paint upon his body
other painted foes to scare.
He shot many a flaming arrow at the white man's grim stockade.
He was cruel, he was cunning, but with men his wars were made.

Words Of Wisdom

Were a man not to marry a second time, it might be concluded that his first wife had given him a disgust to marriage, but by taking a second wife, he pays the highest compliment to the first, by showing that she made him so happy as a married man, that he wishes to be so a second time.—Johnson.

Incredible Omissions

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.

WHOLLY aside from the tradition violated by his candidacy, and whether he wins or loses the election, the calculated strategy of Mr. Roosevelt's campaign will have made it unique in American history. As a result, politicians and political observers must revise their ideas about what can and what cannot be done in running for office in this country.

IT is the omissions of the President's campaign that stand it out as unparalleled. It is the things he did not say rather than the things he said which provided its unprecedented character. Looking back on it now, it is almost incredible that any man should have been able to go through a three-month campaign and completely ignore what concededly were the vital questions raised by his candidacy; treat as though not made the most direct and serious charges of the opposition.

THAT he was able to do these things is certainly a tribute to the unquestioning devotion with which the President has imbued his large following; but certainly, too, it is evidence of extraordinary lack of discrimination and almost limitless credulity. For example, no one disputes that the basic issue in the campaign was the third-term issue. Never before had a President been a candidate for the third term. That simple fact raised questions that went to the very foundations of our system. There were arguments on both sides. Clearly, it was the overshadowing issue, the obvious subject of debate, the question upon which the people were most entitled to light.

YET not once in three months did Mr. Roosevelt so much as refer to it except obliquely, to say that if elected he would not run a fourth time. The second great omission was in connection with the Federal finances. That any President seeking re-election, at any time, could go through an entire campaign without so much as mentioning the state of the National Treasury or touching upon the subject of expenditures and receipts would hardly be believed. But that a President who had expended such vast sums, incurred such undreamed-of deficits, levied such enormous taxes and piled up so unprecedented a debt, could fail to mention the subject was unbelievable.

YET that not only happened but, under his orders, the party platform, on which he stood, refrained from mentioning Federal finances, and no amount of attack or criticism could induce either Mr. Roosevelt or his spokesmen to mention them. No more singular thing has occurred in history—that, after expending untold billions of the people's money, a President could ag in seek their votes without accounting to the people or refuting the charges that his fiscal policies were in violation of his own promises and had created exactly the national period of which he had warned before he became President.

OF course, it can be said of these two great omissions that from his standpoint it was exceedingly clever to play the game that way. Obviously, after the Chicago convention, Mr Roosevelt could of consummately defend the "draft" in connection with his third nomination, and quite as obviously he could not reconcile his 1932 promises with the state of the Treasury and the size of the governmental expenditures. To have attempted either would have put Mr. Roosevelt wholly on the defensive—and that is a weak position for any candidate.

THESE omissions, therefore, can be justified from the political point of view, as smart strategy. And, except on the score of not being candid with the people, Mr. Roosevelt cannot be blamed for steadfastly keeping away from discussion of his weaknesses. One may deplore the lack of discrimination among the voters which permitted such glaring omissions in a candidate, but it is natural enough in the candidate to try it. The astounding thing is that this candidate could have continued it until the end without arousing a greater public indignation.

IT tends to strengthen the belief that in politics the voters are emotional rather than reasonable; that in general they are affected by the little things and the big things go unnoticed. That is not an encouraging view to take of the electorate, but there is some justification for it. Of course, there was another omission in the Roosevelt campaign—minor compared to the two above dwelt upon, but in its way very revealing. This was the studied omission by Mr. Roosevelt not only to mention Mr. Willkie's name but to acknowledge that there was a candidate against him. That seemed a calculated attempt to belittle the man, a snobbish effort to express contempt of an individual hard to reconcile with any idea of a big man. It seemed particularly petty for a President.

When the flu victim develops enough pep to shave, it means he is better or he has had lady callers.

Willkie Thanks All His Backers

Urges All To Unite For United State's National Defense Program

FORMAL STATEMENT MADE BY WILLKIE

By WALTER KIERNAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Wendell Willkie congratulated President Roosevelt on his re-election today and in thanking those who backed his unsuccessful campaign urged them to join him in working for unity in America and for completion of the United State's national defense program.

Willkie conceded defeat in a congratulatory telegram to President Roosevelt and later in a formal statement thanked those who had labored and voted for him, saying:

"I accept the result of the election with complete good will.

"The popular vote shows the vitality of our democratic principles and the adherence of our people to the two-party system.

"I extend my thanks to the thousands who so zealously and wholeheartedly worked for my election in various organizations, and to the added millions who supported me. I know that they will continue as I shall to work for the unity of our people, in the completion of our defense effort, in sending aid to Britain and in insistence upon removal on antagonisms in America—all to the end that government of free men may continue and may spread again upon the earth.

"I have received too many kind and encouraging messages to permit of individual answer to all. To the sends of them I express my gratitude and thanks."

Republicans Elect Illinois Governor

Other State Offices Also Won By G. O. P. Despite Roosevelt Lead

CHICAGO, Nov. 6. — President Roosevelt won the 29 electoral college votes of Illinois today with an edge of more than 100,000 votes over Wendell Willkie, but his personal drawing power was insufficient to pull the Democratic state ticket along with him.

Republicans elected a governor, at least three congressmen and had a slim chance to elect a senator to succeed the late J. Hamilton Lewis. The GOP state ticket was also running strong through all offices and it was certain that Illinois, Democratic for eight years, will have a Republican hue.

Dwight Green, Republican, won a smashing victory over the Kelly-Nash organization's man, Harry Hershey, in the race for governor. President (7,011 of 8,379 precincts):

Roosevelt 1,760,590.
Willkie 1,636,791.
Senator (6,948 precincts):
Slattery 1,644,283.
Brooms 1,616,709.
Governor (6,971 precincts):
Green 1,754,520.

Calls are coming again for clothing for the poor in the Ozark Mountains. Can't you help? Babies need warm clothing; little boys need coats. THE STAFF OF LIFE

In Great Britain, as a war measure, the government has issued regulations making the retention or addition of Vitamin B1 in bread compulsory, and I think that in a short time the great benefits of this measure will be apparent, particularly among the low income groups of that country for whom bread is truly the staff of life.

An educational campaign has failed to win the British public away from white bread and so bakers will be permitted to offer a choice of either whole wheat bread or white bread with Vitamin B1 added. White bread naturally contains some B1, but most of it is removed in the conventional milling process, along with mineral salts, mainly the bone-building calcium. Genuine whole wheat bread contains all of the vitamins and mineral salts, but, as stated, the public abroad still prefers its bread white, as does the public over here, regardless of the health elements involved.

Until the introduction of white flour during the last century, wheat bread contained all the vitamins found in the whole grain and was one of the best of foods for children. Then, in making white flour that would stay white and keep well, millers began to remove the wheat germ with most of the Vitamin B1 This was considered refuse and was made into cattle feed. The cattle thrived at the expense of the better health of children and adults, too, who ate the white flour bread.

After it became apparent that the milling process in popular use was removing vital elements, repeated attempts were made to get the public to go back to the old-fashioned whole wheat breads. These efforts failed, although a type of bread called graham bread, attained some favor. However, many graham or so-called whole wheat breads now on the market actually contain little more Vitamin B1 than ordinary white flour, for they contain a high percentage of white flour.

Fortunately, it was discovered not long ago that the vitamin element removed from wheat in the milling process could be preserved and restored to the bread when it is made. This can be done without altering the color of the bread, and best of all, without increasing its cost to the customer. So Britain is now doing it on a national basis.

Why so much concern about Vitamin B1? Well, dietary surveys show that the diet of persons in the low income groups consists principally of white bread, sugar, fat and meat. Now this does NOT contain enough Vitamin B1 for ordinary health. It is an insufficient of this vitamin that causes pellagra, the scourge of the Southern States, and beri-beri, similar scourge of the Orient. Nursing mothers must have plenty of it or they and their offspring suffer. Growing children need plenty of Vitamin B1. A child pale, undernourished, fretful and whiney who frequently refuses food is most likely suffering from lack of B1.

Vitamin B1—or rather its lack—if often a cause of constipation. For the vitamin gives tone to the muscles of the bowel and causes them to act normally. If the vitamin is lacking, the bowels become slow and sluggish. Scientists think today that not only constipation but gastro-intestinal troubles and even appendicitis, are produced, in part at least, by the lack of this vitamin.

You see how important bread containing it is to children and adults.

Citizens Asked To Wear Poppies

Annual Appeal Made By Legion Auxiliary For Welfare Work Of Unit

POPPY DAY TO OCCUR SATURDAY

An appeal for general wearing of the memorial poppy in remembrance of the World War dead on Saturday, November 9, was issued today by Mrs. Marvin Dinsmore, president of the Perry S. Gaston Post, Unit No. 343, American Legion Auxiliary.

Mrs. Dinsmore has asked that every person in New Castle pay honor to the men of the city and of the nation who gave their lives in defense of the country by wearing a poppy on Poppy Day. "The poppy is the individual tribute to the memory of the men who died in the World War service," said Mrs. Dinsmore. "Everyone can wear a poppy to show that he remembers and is grateful for the gallant sacrifices made for America's security and democracy. Every patriotic citizen will take part in the observance of Poppy Day."

The poppy is the symbol of the supreme sacrifice. It stands for the highest type of patriotism we can conceive. Wearing this little flower awakens in our hearts a deeper conception of our duties to our country. It reminds us that life itself is not too much to give if our country is in danger and give us inspiration to serve in peace with the same spirit of patriotic devotion that inspired those who died among the poppies of France.

Members of the auxiliary will distribute poppies on the streets all day Saturday, receiving in exchange for them, contributions for the Legion and Auxiliary welfare work among the disabled veterans and needy families of veterans. The poppies have been made by disabled veterans in veterans' hospitals and workrooms.

Yes, our government has let us become shamefully weak; but we aren't weak enough to justify acting yellow.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1940 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

As existence seemingly becomes more precarious on this planet, scientists think that life may be starting on our neighbor, Venus. The Smithsonian Institution passes along a statement by H Spencer Jones, Astronomer Royal of Great Britain, in which Mr. Jones reports evidence of a great deal of carbon-dioxide in the atmosphere of Venus. This was an attendant condition of our early vegetation.

"Thus," says Mr. Spencer, "we seem to see in Venus a world where conditions are somewhat similar to those that the earth passed through millions of years ago. Any life on Venus can be, at the most, primitive plant life. It is possible that life may be in process of gradual development and that in millions of years to come, when life on earth may be nearing extinction, Venus may be the home of higher and highes types of life."

If we concentrated the power of about 300 Sperry searchlights for photo electric signals we could communicate with the Venusians, provided they were similarly advanced in the techniques of communication. We might even tell them much about what not to do, in this matter of fostering and nurturing abundant life in any given planetary household. That is if he were really frank and neighborly and if Venus didn't start flashing something back about "lebentraum" and get us to talking that way, too.

Scientists tell me that the question of life elsewhere in the universe is, and may forever remain, a matter of long-range, off-hand conjecture, with, of course, no possibility of applying the ordinary experimental techniques of science. But there is one trend to be noted in recent years. Sound, cautious, scientific findings all have inclined to strengthen a belief in the fellowship of our modest little bungalow planet with the great mansions of the skies.

In astro-physics, particularly, the scales have been weighted on the side of some cosmic baton, swinging the life march, not only in our solar system but in the far deeps of the skies, where there are doubtless many other suns with families of planets. Specifically, this is noted by the scientifically accepted theory that, through the ages, weather on the earth is paced by long cycles of sunspots. Specifically again, there was that impressive Harvard university study of the influence of sunspots and solar radiation on mundane affairs and behaviour.

Such studies are limited to possible influences and responses within the solar system only. But there has been much informed conjecture as to conceivable links between even more remote cosmic forces and goings on here on the earth. For instance, extravagant as it may seem, it has been suggested by reputable scientists that the sub-Arctic ice wall advances and retreats, through the eons in obedience to some stellar compulsion.

The significance of this as to life on the planet would lie in its ordering of great migrations and adaptations among animals—the great, hairy mammoth told to move on and make room for a livelier, breed, for example. It would supply the element of compulsion necessary to round out the evolutionary theory. Scientists have known much of what happened in the life progression but not why it happened. Does the why lie somewhere out in space?

Robert Andrews Millikan, great American physicist of the California Institute of Technology, is one of the most reserved and cautious of scientists, but he thinks that our life may be interwoven with cosmic ends and means. Explaining his cosmic rays to a friend of this writer, he said he believed them to be incidental to the making of raw material for new worlds, and then aded:

"Perhaps we haven't made much of a success with life on our planet and will be given another chance somewhere else."

Is it possible that Mr. Jones, the Astronomer Royal, looking beyond the night bombers in the skies, sees Venus being fitted and garnished for this "new try"—to start where we will leave off if we don't mend our ways?

Color Magician Will Speak Here

Dr. Herbert Thompson Strong, Of New York, Will Address Executives Club

Dr. Herbert Thompson Strong, of the New York Museum of Science and Industry, will be the next speaker to be heard by members of the Executives Club, when they meet again in The Castleton at their monthly dinner meeting on Thursday evening, November 14.

In his address here, Dr. Strong will speak on the theme, "Exploring the magic world of color," his address will be illustrated and will show the beautiful colors than can be secured by projecting prismatic rays into mammoth crystals of optical quarts.

We will also show the mysteries of polarized light, when it is projected through minute chemical crystals. These show a phantasmagoria of ever changing colors on the screen. Then he uses ultra violet light to bring out of dull grey rocks, colors like those of flaming jewels.

Young Casts Ballot Despite Broken Legs

C. L. Young Taken From Jameson Memorial Hospital To Rose Point To Vote

Despite the fact that both his legs are encased in big casts, protecting fractures which he received when struck by an automobile while crossing the highway near his home in Slippery Rock township on August 15, C. L. Young, of R. F. D. No. 2, Portersville, was not deprived of his vote yesterday.

Through arrangements with his doctor, he was carried to an automobile and transported to the Rose Point polling place in Slippery Rock township, where he cast his ballot for Wendell Willkie. Then he came back to his bed in the Jameson Memorial hospital, satisfied that he had performed his duty as a citizen of this great Republic. He was none the worse today for his experience, only a little disappointed that the man of his choice did not win out.

The lecture season is upon us—ho-hum.

Which brings up the subject of yawns.

Yawns are deep, involuntary respirations made with the mouth open.

Yawns are infectious.

Yawns are often the result of boredom and ennui.

Whey may also be caused by bodily fatigue.

In some diseases, yawns are definite symptoms.

Yawns occur with lethergic encephalitis and brain tumor.

Cerebeller abscesses and apoplexy may bring on yawns

Healthy yawns are relaxing, like a seventh inning stretch.

Yawns improve circulation and aid the body musculature.

Yawns increase the tone of the entire system.

It's fun to watch the American scene, if you can be unbiased. Leaders and people always do so exactly as you knew they would.

Ceremony Solemnized Tuesday Morning At St. Monica Church

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 6.—A lovely Election Day bride was Miss Nellie E. Ippolito, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Ippolito, of Clyde street, Wampum, who was married to Donald J. MacDonald, son of Mrs. Josephine MacDonald, of Fifth street.

The ceremony was performed at 9 o'clock in the St. Monica church, Wampum, with Rev. Fr. James Harvey as officiant. Nuptial mass was sung by the church choir.

The bride chose a beautiful white satin gown fashioned with a square neckline edged with lace. She wore a finger tip veil cascading from a cap of orange blossoms and her bouquet was of Easter lilies and white pom pons.

Miss Mary Ippolito was her sister's maid of honor and she wore a becoming gown of rose crepe and wool featuring trapunto embroidering. Her accessories were dubonnet and she carried a cluster of yellow 'mums.

Arthur Ippolito, brother of the bride, served as best man.

After the ceremony, a wedding breakfast for the immediate families followed at the bride's home. Pretty nuptial appointments were used. Later in the day, they left on a motor trip to Cleveland and Niagara Falls. Returning home, they will reside in Clyde street, at Wampum.

The bridegroom is a graduate of the local high school and is employed at the Hill Service Station, this city, while the bride graduated from the Wampum high school and is now employed by Herberts Clover Farm store, at Wampum.

B. P. W. Told Of Need For Community Center

Elmer Greenham, James Shirk, Mrs. Dale Mason Are Guest Speakers

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 6.—"Our Community Center" was the topic for the dinner meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club last evening in the First Baptist church.

Miss Bessie Runyan gave the history of the project in the city with much work already having been done by civic groups of the Woman's club and church organizations.

Elmer S. Greenham, president of the Ellwood City Council, was the first speaker and he spoke on the needs of such a center. He pointed out that the playgrounds are an excellent play for-directed play, but are inadequate as they are open only a short time in the summer.

James D. Shirk spoke on the available facilities in the city. He recently made a survey of the fraternal organizations to see what rooms were available. Mr. Shirk reported that there were many available rooms in the Shelby Social club. The Shelby Rooming House; the Eagles club; V. F. W. hall, American Legion hall; Elks club and various churches.

Mrs. Dale R. Mason gave a report on a survey made in March 1939 using approximate figures. There are about 2500 young people between the ages of 13-21 living in Ellwood who would be contacted by such a program. There are about 1400 young people in the schools and about fifteen per cent of the 99 out of school have secured jobs or gone on to school, leaving a large percentage without work or responsibility.

"The goal of our town should be to educate the community to the need of a trained and experienced director" said Mrs. Mason in conclusion. She prevoiusly said that the approach could begin through a W. P. A. project.

Miss Lorena Thompson gave a report of the recent dinner meeting held in Rochester which local members attended.

Robert W. Cornelius to Michael H. Schmidt, Union township, $600.

E. M. Clark estate to John L. Montgomery, Union township, $1,446.91.

Alfred S. Pearson to William A. Dibbley, Union township, $1.

One question that came up on Tuesday in the court house was this. A man living in the rural district found that his R. D. number had been changed. Could he vote? He was told the could as he had not changed his residence the government had merely changed the designation of it.

A divorce has been granted Elizabeth Keder Wadlinger from Frank Adam Wadlinger. The decree was signed by Judge W. Walter Braham.

There are a lot of tired faces in the court house today. Many of the attaches were up all night caring for election returns and today the attaches are wondering what a bed feels like.

Considering the heavy vote cast the election boards got their returns in early after the election Tuesday. There are some boards composed of men and women who are accustomed to adding figures and they got their work done somewhat faster than other boards.

A big shot's speeches are ghost-written, and a famed columnist "borrows" the remarks of friends. How do the famous get that way if only the obscure have brains?

Red Cross to Link Army Men With Families Back Home

Defense plans calling for an army of 4,000,000 men is giving American Red Cross field directors in military stations throughout the nation their biggest job in more than 20 years. Plans have been completed by the Red Cross to expand its services with the growth of the Army and Navy to provide social service and economic help wherever needed. Likewise steps are being taken to widen services in hospitals. Above—Red Cross Gray Lady volunteers cheer the lot of convalescing service men. Right—a sailor with "troubles back home" gets friendly help from a Red Cross man.

Rapidly expanding responsibility in connection with the mobilization of a 4,000,000-man army is giving the military and naval welfare service of the American Red Cross its busiest year since the World War.

The Lawrence county chapter has noted a marked increase of 40 per cent in the volume of work pertaining to the home service work.

The welfare work of the Red Cross is a vital part of the national defense. Each man enlisting from Lawrence county becomes the chapter's responsibility. It is the problem of the home service section to check on any home worries and to make the adjustment as easy as possible.

At each army and navy base the American Red Cross maintains a field director, whose duty is to listen to all problems of the enlisted man. If the field director feels it necessary to communicate with the enlisted man's family, the chapter is contacted. From this point the chapter carries on, securing the information, so as to alleviate the worry of the enlisted man.

The Red Cross, nationally and locally, has satisfied the war and navy departments. These departmets state the American Red Cross constitutes one of the most essential phases of national defense, since it bears directly upon that factor which underlies all aspects of military life—"Morale".

Germany Silent Upon Election

(International News Service)

BERLIN, Nov. 6—Official German quarters reserved comment on the re-election of President Roosevelt today, maintaining their attitude that the election was an internal, domestic affair of the United States in which the Reich had no desire to meddle.

Any disappointment over the election result was well concealed. German quarters said the outcome would exert no effect upon German determination to win the war.

Indian Relics To Be Presented To Local College

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Nov. 6.—An extensive collection of Indian relics was presented to Westminster college this week by William M. Duff, president of Pittsburgh and a member of the Westminster Board of Trustees.

Mr. Duff "inherited" the hobby from his mother, who was born on Brunot's Island, first island in the Ohio river below Pittsburgh. Many of the Indian relics were taken from an Indian mound on a cliff above Brunot's Island, which was at one time an Indian-rendezvous. Each spring-plowing, Mr. Duff recalls, turned up a crop of Indian arrowheads, spearheads, pipes and axes.

On various trips around the country, Mr. Duff added to his collection.

The Westminster collection includes stone hoes, war-clubs, spearheads, stone drills, stone fish-hooks, skin-scrapers, skinning knives and arrowheads.

The collection, now on display in the library, will later be placed in the geological museum in the Science Hall.

Campbell High To Bring Big Crowd For Grid Battle

Final Home Game Of 1940 May Find 10,000 In Stands At Kickoff If Weather Is Right

Don Jerry Gets Chance At Quarterback, Peters To Play Guard, Seek Ninth Win

INDICATIONS point to the biggest crowd of the year here Friday night at Taggart Stadium for the New Castle and Campbell Memorial High football battle. The kickoff at 8 o'clock if weatherman is kind will find the stands well filled.

There is considerable interest being manifested in this approaching game. Campbell High loser of but one game to date that to Youngstown East will be out to upset the New Castle "Red Hurricane," if at all possible. Then too, they would like to avenge that 20 to 0 defeat pasted on them here back in 1933 the last time the two clubs tangled.

Watch Aerial Battle

Every indication points to an aerial battle of the highest type here Friday night. Both teams employ a varied assortment of passes. With Lee back in shape again New Castle can be expected to keep this stellar sophomore fullback plenty busy heaving them. Campbell also is noted for its passing attack and will worry the local no end.

Head Coach Phil Bridenbaugh saw the Campbell team defeat Struthers High Monday night 46 to 0 at Campbell and knows that the New Castle team is in for one of its toughest engagements of the year Friday night. Campbell has a big powerful line and a tricky set of ball luggers. "They will give us plenty of trouble" was the way the local mentor put it.

Jerry At Quarterback

The misfortunate injury suffered by Freddy McKee, has caused a switch in the New Castle backfield for the game Friday night. It will be Don Jerry big 165-pound guard who will shift to quarterback in place of the injured McKee and at the right guard spot will be Peters a good looking lineman and a hard fighter. Jerry from his guard post has been doing a lot of fine blocking for the ball carriers and it was for his excellent work in this deparement that he gets his big change in the backfield. The move while necessary will no doubt be a good one.

The New Castle regulars were excused from a hard workout on Monday night, but were out in full force Tuesday in the rain preparing for the battle that they know they face Friday in the Campbell game.

Seek Ninth Victory

Faculty Manager Norman Nelson and Ticket Manager Robert Mills are preparing to handle a 10,000 crowd Friday night. Campbell will bring a crowd of many hundred here, is was announced in Campbell today. They have requested a block of 1,000 tickets.

The New Castle High team will be out to keep its slate clean and seek its ninth victory of the year. The Butler tie is the only blemish on an otherwise perfect 1940 season to date. New Castle has but one game after the Campbell game, that being at Warren, Ohio on the afternoon of November 16. The game here Friday is the final home game.

Purdue Favored Over Fordham

INS Sports Editor Picks Big Ten Team To Upset Rams In New York City

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 6—Without any intention of being perverse about the thing, we herewith pick Purdue to defeat Fordham next Saturday in the sixth revival of this battle, which annually brings the Big Ten into the East. We are picking this one strictly against local sentiment and despite the fact that Purdue isn't as hot this year as it has been in the past. Moreover, this one is our only single game pick of the season. Usually, we pass out a hatful of probable winners and let them all go wrong at once.

Big Ten Best

But we figure this season will help to prove a long-time contention of ours, viz and to wit:

That the best football in this country is played in the Big Ten and that a pretty good Big Ten team, therefore, will be able to do a little better than all right against a camparative leader elsewhere.

Purdue has a team which is known in football circles at a 'comer" which is to say one that will get better as it goes along, and we figure that this game will go a long way toward showing just how much better the Big Ten is year in and year out than other sections.

The so-called boiler-makers lost 26 of their 39 letter men by graduation since last season and have had a dismal outlook ever since the season opened. But they have been getting better from week to week and seem to have arrived finally. Fordham will be a good test.

REVOLVER SHOOT POSTPONED

There will not be a Revolver Club shoot at the Cathedral range this evening, owing to previous engagements at the Cathedral. The next shoot by the New Castle Revolver Club will be Wednesday, November 13 at 7:30 o'clock it was announced today by Secretary Charles Phipps.

NEW ORLEANS.—Not since 1928 has Tulane's current record of three successive defeats been equaled by a Wave team. In that year, the Greenies lost to Georgia Tech, Vandy and Georgia in a row. It was even worse in 1927 when the Wave bowed five times and tied one in a six week string before breaking the jinx.

Star Amateurs To Box Monday

There'll Be A Parade Of Champions, Local Boys, Too, Here

LOCAL FAVORITES BOOKED FOR ARENA

There have been many amateur boxing shows here but the fistic card arranged for Armistice night in The Arena outranks all of the past performances according to those who like to watch the boys who wear the badge of pugilistic courage cavort inside the ring.

In fact, it is a docket concerning which reams of copy do not need be written. Not only are the district champions and Golden Glove tournament winners assigned for action but also the cream of New Castle fighters.

Here Is The Card

Tony Arkett, Ellwood City vs. Ray Miller, Meadville, 118 pounds.

Les Leasure New Castle vs. Tommy Penrod. Bellevue, 150 pounds.

Russ Baxter, New Castle vs. Joe Stranner, Pittsburgh, 150 pounds.

Tony Stingy, Youngstown vs. Johnny Duncee, Meadville, 135 pounds.

Frankie Moran, New Castle vs. Eddie Sickle, Bellevue, 135 pounds.

Frankie Genaro, Youngstown vs. Jimmy Wert, Bellevue, 150 pounds.

Baby Face Costa, Meadville vs. Henry Pratt, Pittsburgh, 120 pounds.

Ralph Butcner, Meadville vs. Al Turner, Pittsburgh, 175 pounds.

Butcher has beaten topnotch national A. A. U. fighters; Turner is the Allegheny Mountain association senior champion; Pratt has won five tourney titles; Costa has won the Meadville Golden Gloves meet; Frankie Genaro has won the Youngstown welterweight tournament and Frankie Moran is better than most fans give credit for being.

Willing Local Boxers

Whenever some boys sign to meet Frankie they take a run-out powder because they know he is a knockout puncher with either hand. If opponents fail to observe rules and refuse to appear it is not Frankie's fault because he knocks out some substitute. One thing about Moran is that fans can feel sure he will always show up.

Russell Baxter some day will be a Ken Overlin. Mike Gibbons or if he grows bigger, a Billy Conn. Les Leasure scored a knockout in his first fight and Ellwood City likes Arkett who will take on Ray Miller a fast bantamweight.

Because of the many star amateurs and it being Armistice night a capacity crowd is expected. Many of the boys on the card do not know anything but fight. There are no known stallers on the docket, hence a night of action galore is anticipated.

Local Teams Drill For Busy Week-End

Westminster, Ellwood City, Bessemer Close Grid Season Saturday

County football aggregations are working overtime as they complete drills for one of the busiest week ends of the season.

New Castle High lines up against one of the stiffest elevens in this sector, Campbell Memorial, Friday night at Taggart Stadium. The Ohioans have dropped but one clash. The kick-off time, 8 o'clock.

Westminster College bids farewell to the pig-pelt sport Saturday, meeting Grove City, away from home.

Ellwood City does battle with Beaver Falls, in the valley city, while Bessemer meets its ancient rival, Lowellville, Saturday in Bessemer.

SPORTS WORLD RAMBLINGS

Gridiron flashes:—Anyone who tries to tell you that Notre Dame tried to hold down the Army score is all wet. In between halves, according to Eddie Brietz, the Irish mentor told his squad the story about the great Gipp . . . The triumph was a costly one for the Irish. Milt Piepul aggravated his side and will not see action against Navy. . . .

Jim McCarthy, Illinois sophomore quarterback, kicked 40 points after touchdowns without a miss during his high school days. The only sad note is that the Illini can't cross pay dirt enough . . . Despite the fact that Cornell and Michigan appear on the schedule. Pennsylvania fears Harvard more than any other opponent. Don't ask us why. The rivals square off this week-end. . . .

Mike Byelene, Purdue's great runner and passing halfback, returns to the lineup this week against Fordham. The ex-Massillon whirlwind was sidelined by a rib fracture. He returned to action and suffered a sprained wrist. . . . Bill DeCorrevont and Jim Smith will give Northwestern capacity strength for Saturday's clash against Illinois. . . .

Stanford's undefeated aggregation is showing signs of ripping at the seams. The Indians have been pepped up for six consecutive weeks. Clark Shaughnessy's biggest problem is getting his lads up for the California game this week. . . . It's almost a cinch bet that Tennessee winds up a perfect season. Southwestern, Virginia, Kentucky and Vanderbilt, mediocre foes, stand in the way. . . .

Suppose you noticed that Texas A. & M. copped its 17th consecutive victory by a 17-0 count. . . . The series between Texas A. & M.-Southern Methodist dates back to 1916. The Mustangs hold a 10-9 edge in victories. Three of the games ended in deadlocks. The rivals clash this week-end in one of the top battles of the day. . . .

Tommy Harmon, Michigan's express, is one of those rarities who can play almost any sport to perfection. In high school, he won 14 letters in football, baseball, basketball and track. In addition, he is blessed with an ideal personality. When he isn't playing football or studying, he is waiting on tables in his fraternity house or helping out in the campus book store. . . .

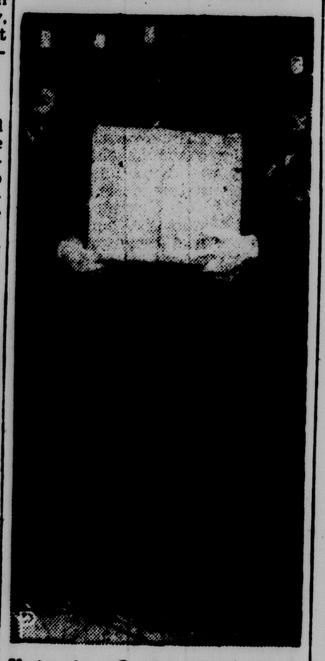

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Tommy Harmon, Michigan, needs only two more touchdowns to equal the scoring record of Red Grange, Illinois, made in 1931. Red scored 31. Harmon has scored 29 and has three games to go to equal or surpass Grange. . . . Sam Snead, Delaware, Pa., at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., shot a 63 on the par 70 course which equals the course record. . . . Hank Greenberg, left fielder of Detroit, has been named the American league's most valuable player. The award was made by the Baseball Writers Association of America committee. . . . Jim Johnston, Washington back, has climbed into a first place with his teammate, Todd, also a 'back' for individual scoring honors in the National Football league. Each has scored 42 points. . . . Welterweight Fritzie Zivic and his manager, Luke Carey, were defendants today in a $10,000 breach of contract suit filed in New York by Charlie Bennett. Bennett claims he was designated as Zivic's New York representative to both the fighter and the manager. Pete Bostwick's Cottesmore, the favorite, practically clinched this year's steeplechase honors by winning the Temple Gwathmey handicap, a feature of the United Hunts meeting at Belmont park, New York, yesterday.

NEW ORLEANS.—Tulane's football Greenies, without a triumph after three games, are still one of the nation's leading ground gaining teams. The Wave has rolled up 44 first downs compared with 30 for the combined opposition while losing to Boston College, Auburn and Fordham. The Greenies pounded out 16 first downs to 7 for the Rams last Saturday to maintain their claim of dubious honors.

NOTRE DAME, Ind.—The standout in Notre Dame's line for three games in 1940, the Irish mentor agree, has been Thomas Charles Gallagher, Irish-Bohemian senior left tackle.

Draft Bowl Home

NEW YORK, Nov. 6—The baseball Writers' Association of America by official ballot today decided what everybody else already knew, namely and to wit: that Hank Greenberg, Detroit's slugging outfielder, was the best player in the American League this last season.

The baseball writers accordingly handed the big Bronx belter the most valuable player award.

This is the second time Hank has been so honored. He also won the award in 1935 when he was cavorting at first base for the Tigers.

The two awards coming five years apart, only serve to stress the man's class. When a player can top his league as a first baseman and then after spending several years at his natural position, suddenly switch on order to the outfield and again top the field, he must be a marvel.

Feller Second Choice

Many predicted Hank would be a flop when Del Baker converted him into an outfielder. The experts figured no man living could spend so many years in a first baseman's groove and then turn into an outfielder with any hope of success.

But Big Hank fooled everybody, including himself.

Bob Feller, young fireballer of the Cleveland Indians, landed in second place with 222 points due, of course, to the 27 victories he turned in.

Jolting Joe DiMaggio of the Yanks who won the award in 1939, wound up in third place this time with 151. Joe led the league in hitting.

SHORT SPORTS

An accomplished pianist, Jim Sims, sophomore quarterback from Moulton, is the leading musician in Auburn's 1940 football ranks. The talented Sims entertains the Tigers on all of their grid excursions.

SARATOGA SPRINGS — Forty yearlings are still stabled at the Saratoga Race Track, which has been boarded up against oncoming snows.

WASHINGTON—Bob Seymour, a first-year man from Oklahoma, is making the Washington Redskins' ground attack stand out.

Cheerleaders Have Done Fine Work

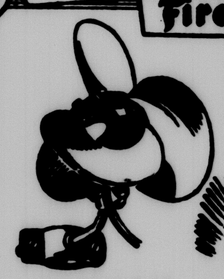

The New Castle cheering at the football games this fall has been the best for the past many years, and mainly through the work of the eight fine young girl and boy cheerleaders, supervised by Bernice Bartlett and trained by Margaret Fisher.

The cheerleaders will make their final home appearance on Friday night and should get a big hand. They have done a noble piece of cheerleading this year that has no doubt given the "Red Hurricane" its needed pep to go undefeated.

The cheerleading group is composed of Bett, Reed, Billie Jean Seal, Gloria Augostine and Mildred Pelasco, with Agnes Baker serving as sub; Joe Johnston, Fred Thompson, Jim Minnick and Stan Yakowitz, with Ernie Zarrilla acting as sub.

NEW YORK—Delay in contracting for steel and other material for the renovation of the Aqueduct and Jamaica race tracks is due to the defense program.

Westminster To Play Grovers On Saturday

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Nov. 6—In their final game of the 1940 season, the Westminster eleven travels to Grove City Saturday for what ought to be the hardest-fought game of the Titan season.

Both Westminster and Grove City have two wins and five losses for the season; and both teams turned in upsets last Saturday, the Titans dumping Geneva 6-0 and the Grovers surprising the California Teachers with enough power to pile up a 26-0 win.

In the past ten years, Westminster and Grove City have kept the score even. The Grovers have two wins, 14-0 in 1931 and 12-0 in 1933, and the Titans have two victories, 7-0 in 1932 and 13-0 last year. The two district elevens have two tie games on recent records, 2-2 in 1934 and 6-6 in 1938.

The same gridders who surprised Geneva with enough offensive power to score, and enough defensive power to stave off fourteen first-downs, will probably start for the Titans: Washabaugh, New Wilmington, L.E.; Wilson, Canton, O., L.T.; Hudson, Kittanning, L.G.; Tack, Butler, C.; Lane, Johnstown, R.G.;

THE GUMPS—EXPLANATIONS ARE IN ORDER

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEKALL

Fellow citizens . . . irregardless of what political fronts we were on Monday and Tuesday . . . we must now remember we are Americans First. We must lay aside all and join hands for the betterment of this great United States . . . where else could a population like we have, do and say the things that have been said and still live to see the rising sun? We hope and pray that all may go well with you in the years to come . . . remembering we are Americans.

To the local candidates that made the grade . . . we congratulate you . . . we wish you all the best of luck in your new title . . . servants of the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. We feel sure that you all will do everything within your power to make this community, state and nation a better place in which to live.

* * *

To the President of the United States . . . we wish you good luck . . . we hope that under your third term you will bring peace and contentment to the peoples for whom you stand . . . remembering that liberty and justice for all is our ideal.

* * *

Wendell L. Willkie . . . you fought a grand battle . . . those who were at your side are the greatest sports of all. You can really tell the worth of a person or persons by the way they meet defeat . . . and summing up the entire campaign . . . I think we are all of the same opinion . . . WE ARE AMERICANS FIRST. The vote that turned out yesterday assured us that Democracy is not dead!

* * *

It seems that a woman gave a dog away yesterday and for some unknown reason to human beings . . . the dog ran away from the new owner and returned home. This dog is again up for adoption and may be found at 448 Croton Avenue . . . it is a small black dog.

From the looks of things outside . . . the cold of winter is about to descend upon us . . . it's getting around to that time of year . . . Thanksgiving is just around the corner . . . when turkey, dressing, sweet potatoes, pumpkin pie is on the mind of a great many of our peoples . . . so let's lick our chops and go down to the kitchen for a snack of milk, crackers and peanut butter.

Stock Market Shows Recovery

Early Trading Shows Drop, But Sharp Recovery Follows In Morning

By LESLIE GOULD
(International News Service Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The stock market's reaction to the re-election of President Roosevelt today was an initial slump of 1 to almost 3 points, which was followed by an almost equally sharp recovery.

Virtually all of the action was crammed into the first half-hour of trading. By 10:30 o'clock, many of the opening losses had been wiped out and several pivotals were behind plus signs. Through the balance of the morning the general list held in a narrow range, with the trend irregularly lower.

Utilities, however, maintained a weak tone throughout as most issues ruled a point or more under Monday's closing levels. Commonwealth & Southern made its first appearance at 11:45, a block of 35,000 shares changing hands at 1⅛ for a net loss of ½. United Corp.'s initial sale was for 10,000 shares at 1¾, down ⅛.

Activity dwindled appreciably after the early excitement. First hour sales totaled 430,000 shares.

U. S. Steel gave a typical performance. The stock opened 1½ points lower on a sale of 5,000 shares at 68, then quickly recovered to above 70. Later dealings carried steel back to around 69. Bethlehem converted an initial loss of 1¼ into an equal gain, but its best levels were shaded before the noon hour.

Allied Chemical on an independent move ran up 2 points before profit-taking set in.
